Battles over budget to start today

By ROBERT MACKAY
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Two Senate Republican leaders defended President Reagan's proposed $348.5 billion 1984 budget Sunday as being fair to the needy.

Moreover, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan predicted Congress will pass most of it.

But a leading Democrat predicted there will be a bipartisan effort to protect programs for the needy and to cut the growth of military spending more than Reagan proposes in the budget he will send to Congress today.

The president will present an $348.5 billion budget for fiscal 1984 that freezes some domestic programs; deeply cuts social welfare spending, especially for health care and pensions; increases military spending $30 billion, and projects a $189 billion deficit.

"I'll think there'll be a lot of discussion... on the long run, we will get most of our budget," Regan.

interviewed on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley," predicted confidently.

But Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., predicted "heated debate" on three areas of the new budget — Social Security, the level of defense increases and standby tax hikes.

"This budget, while it may be picked apart in details, is a very responsible budget," Domenici said in an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"I think there's somewhat of a mid-course correction occurring in terms of an overall budget policy," he said. "I think it's still on course, perhaps not steady on course, but still on course."

Domenici said food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children — the main welfare program — and Supplemental Security Income programs would grow about 12 percent over the next five years under Reagan's new budget instead of 14 percent.

"I think on that score, that's eminently fair. Those programs have been cut about as much as they can," Domenici said.

"Social cuts, as I understand it, won't be cut as far as the very needy are concerned," agreed Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., Reagan's closest adviser on Capitol Hill, who appeared on CBS's "Face the Nation" program.

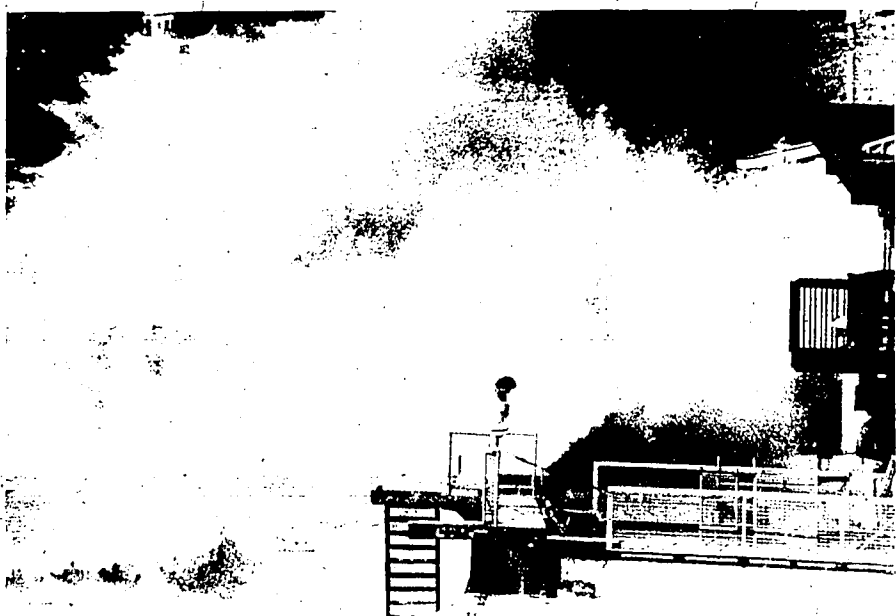

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., interviewed separately on the ABC program, said, "As far as cutting social programs, I think there will be a bipartisan effort to protect them."

"There will also be a bipartisan effort to cut defense," Rostenkowski said.

As for the deep health-care cuts, Domenici said, "We all know Medicare has to be reformed or it will go bankrupt. The thrust's right. Congress may have to find another way (to achieve the result)."

Huge wave breaking behind a Ventura, Calif., man checking for damage outside his home chased him to safety after a quick look

Day of respite

Californians relaxed Sunday but new storm expected tonight

By JAMES J. DOYLE
United Press International

LOS ANGELES — California enjoyed a respite Sunday from a series of Pacific storms that ruined thousands of homes and killed 12 people but forecasters said another storm was expected to strike tonight or Tuesday.

The damage from four storms that hammered the coast and inland valleys may exceed $100 million, state officials said. At least 12 persons died as a direct result of the waves, raging rivers and wind.

The weather for Super Bowl Sunday was mild and cloudy for the NFL championship game at Pasadena's Rose Bowl, but weather forecasters said storms are backed up to Japan, and the next in the series is due tonight or Tuesday.

Three homes, undermined by record high surf and waves, slid into the ocean at Malibu Saturday. At the same time, a dozen homes in Stinson Beach in Marin County north of San Francisco were pounded into kindling by heavy waves.

The state Office of Emergency Services reported

More about weather — A2

3,328 homes and 539 businesses damaged or destroyed in the state last week by the relentless chain of storms, winds and tides.

About 2,000 residents have been evacuated from their homes in the state, many of them taking shelter in 18 Red Cross facilities.

Four counties — San Diego, Los Angeles, Marin and San Mateo — have been declared disaster areas by Gov. George Deukmejian and two others have asked for that status as the first step toward receiving federal aid.

Actors Rod Steiger and Lee Majors were among the movie personalities slinging sandbags Saturday as the tidal waves pounded into the beach.

Majors, the star of television's "Fall Guy," said about 15 stuntmen from his show helped build a plywood barrier and sandbag his home.

"I was lucky," Majors said. "I've lived out here through three fires and it's always worth it."

Steiger, Burgess Meredith, Bruce Dern and Dyan

Cannon were not so fortunate. Their homes were heavily damaged.

Heavy surf in the Los Angeles Harbor area uncovered military ammunition on Cabrillo Beach that has been buried since World War II, police said.

The Paradise Cove fishing pier near Malibu was destroyed by waves, and Santa Monica's famed pier was heavily damaged. In San Diego County, waves tore away much of the Crystal Pier.

One of the Malibu homes that collapsed into the surf Saturday was built by the pioneer Rindge family in 1929 and used as the setting of the 1945 movie "Mildred Pierce."

A nearby Malibu resident, Barry Henry, had enough.

"I'm leaving never to return," he said. "It's just too much trouble living here."

While waves earlier ate away at the 1,200 foot long Santa Monica pier, Kathryn Volght watched her father's tackle shop being battered.

"It's like watching your life sink into the ocean," she said.

Some drivers park trucks, go on strike

By JUNE PRESTON
United Press International

Independent truckers across the United States pulled their rigs off the road at midnight Sunday to protest increased fuel and road use taxes.

The strikers may face confrontations with other drivers who vowed to keep on trucking.

Pennsylvania Teamsters organized "SWAT teams" to keep their trucks rolling and advised striking independent drivers not to stop them.

"Our people are running," said Ty McCue, spokesman for the Teamsters Joint Council 40. "If they try to shut us down, we'll have SWAT teams to be prepared to break them loose... any way we can."

Mike Parkhurst, president of the Independent Truckers Association, said early Monday independent drivers were heading home but it may take a while for the strike to "jell."

"A lot of guys have started," he said shortly after the strike started at 10:01 p.m. MST. "It normally takes a couple of days for something like this to jell."

Independent Truckers Association spokesman David Kolman said the national group urged truckers to go home. "We have never advocated violence," Kolman said in Los Angeles. A number of drivers, however, said they feared violence would result from the strike.

The North Carolina Motor Carriers Association said it won't support the strike but some drivers there said fear for personal safety would force them to park their rigs.

Truck driver Robert Keller, 48, said he would honor the strike primarily out of fear for personal safety.

Keller, one of about 50 truckers stopped at the Union 76 Truck Stop on

I-40 near Greensboro, said, "It is better to stop than to be killed. I'm not going out there and get hurt. My life is more valuable than that truck is."

Dennis Snyder, president of South Dakota's ITA chapter, said, "Every look in the world comes out of the bush on something like this."

In Washington state 50 members of the Inland Empire Truckers Association said they would pull their 18-wheelers into a convoy today and travel through Moscow, Idaho, Pullman, Colfax, Spangle and Spokane, urging other truckers to get off the roads.

In Iowa, the 600-member Independent Truckers Association said its engines would be idle until the strike ends. The majority of Iowa's independent truckers haul meat and perishable products to markets in the East.

There was some dispute over when the strike would actually begin.

Kolman insisted the national ITA strike would begin at 12:01 a.m. local time today, but said some trucks might still be on the highways en route home today. The California-based organization represents 30,000 of more than 100,000 independent truckers in the United States.

Ohio ITA President Marvin Hickman, of Cincinnati, said the strike would not begin in that state until Tuesday morning. The Ohio vice president, Jim McCormack of Columbus, said the strike would start Tuesday and added, "anyone who says otherwise is wrong."

When the strike does begin in Ohio, at least 50 percent of the state's 16,000 independent truckers were expected to pull off the roads, but both the Teamsters union and the Ohio Trucking Association said their members would not honor the walkout.

'Safe' cigarette in for hot time

By THOMAS FERRARO
United Press International

WASHINGTON — A Capitol Hill campaign for a "fire-safe" cigarette, one that burns out more quickly than conventional brands, often draws bemused smiles.

That is, they do until sponsors produce grisly pictures of burn victims.

Some of the figures are ghastly. In 1981, there were 63,518 residential fires blamed on careless smoking that killed 2,144 people and injured 3,819 others.

"When people first hear about we're trying to do, they ask if it is some kind of a joke," said Carlton Currence, a legislative aide to Rep. Joe Moakley, D-Mass. "But we show them the figures and pictures of burn victims."

Moakley and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., are sponsoring legislation to give the Consumer Product Safety Commission authority to formulate a safety standard for cigarettes and small cigars.

The legislation, the latest version of an idea first proposed in 1974, would leave it up to the commission to decide how long an idle cigarette and a small cigar should burn before self-extinguishing. Most can now go for up to 40 minutes.

Among the 40 major organizations backing the legislation are the American Medical Association, the International Association of Fire Chiefs and the American Burn Association.

The tobacco industry opposes the measure. It says the safety agency has expertise in developing a cigarette and is apprehensive what the public reaction would be to a government-designed smoke.

As to the conflict is why some cigarettes burn longer than others. Some say the cause is the rolling paper. Others argue the reason is additives mixed with the tobacco for flavor.

Walker Merryman, vice president of the Tobacco Institute, a trade association that represents all major cigarette manufacturers, said, "You can drastically reduce the burning rate by making the paper less porous."

GOP budget-balancing plan due soon

By MARK SHIFFENFELT
United Press International

BOISE — Republican leaders say they expect to put the finishing touches on a fiscal-year 1983 budget-balancing plan early this week and begin running the legislation through formal channels.

Major portions of the program were agreed upon during Republican caucus sessions last week, but the amount and lifespan of a proposed sales-tax increase are still to be decided. Said House Majority Caucus Chairman Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls.

Bateman said Republican leaders from both houses would meet today to hammer out final details of the package, which includes about $17.5 million in budget cuts and transfers of dedicated funds, a sales tax increase of 1 cent or more, and the issuance of about $38 million in tax-anticipation notes.

Democratic Gov. John Evans said

Friday GOP proposals to impose additional cuts on education, ending and the budgets of the state Corrections and Health and Welfare departments were unacceptable to him.

But House Speaker T.W. Stivers, R-Twin Falls, said chances were slim that the GOP majorities in the House and Senate would consider reopening their program and plug in the governor's proposals.

Also this week, legislators will try to put to rest a controversy over whether they should accept increased expense allotments granted by a citizen's commission.

The House last week voted 54-14 to rescind the increases, which would cost the state about $60,000. But a drive by the Senate Republican majority to immediately endorse the House resolution was blocked by the minority Democrats.

According to the Idaho Constitution, unless both houses reject the increases by Wednesday, they will take effect.

The legislative compensation resolution is scheduled to be debated this afternoon in the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Later in the week, the House State Affairs Committee may take another look at a bill from Rep. Michael Strasser, R-Nampa, to freeze state employee wages and hiring and state building construction through June 30, 1984.

And in a House subcommittee on state employees' compensation, a resolution to freeze wages during fiscal year 1984 — but allocate 1.5 percent for merit pay hikes — could come up for a vote.

Energy matters also are to occupy legislative time in the next few days.

This afternoon, the House Resources and Conservation Committee is scheduled to hear testimony on the

Train derailment injures 10

WINNEMUCCA, Nev. (UPI) — Two engines and six cars of an Amtrak train with 81 passengers aboard derailed early Sunday when it struck an empty freight car injuring 10 people.

Three passengers and seven crew members suffered broken bones, cuts and bruises in the collision of the Amtrak Zephyr, eastbound from San Francisco to Chicago, when it hit an unloaded hopper car that had also derailed when it was parked on a siding near Winnemucca.

Passengers were taken to by school bus to Winnemucca, 200 miles northeast of Lake Tahoe, then by bus to Ogden, Utah where they were to change to other trains, said Ed F. Myers, Amtrak spokesman in Chicago.

Laos foray unsuccessful

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Four American adventurers and 15 Laotian anti-Communist guerrillas made an unsuccessful foray into Laos in November in what was to have been a raid on a prison camp where U.S. servicemen were reportedly being held, one of the raiders disclosed Sunday.

The mission aborted when the poorly armed party was ambushed by an unidentified military or paramilitary force, Charles J. Patterson, 37, Dinuba, said in an interview with the San Diego Union.

Syrian guns bombard Beirut

By United Press International

Syrian troops shelled east Beirut Sunday for the first time since they withdrew from the city five months ago and gunners firing rocket-propelled grenades ambushed an Israeli army patrol on the edge of west Beirut, killing one soldier and wounding four others.

The renewed violence was the capital's worst since the Israeli invasion of Lebanon last summer.

Shultz starts tour in Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz arrived in Japan Sunday to explain U.S. arms policy and discuss touchy trade and defense issues on the first leg of his four-stop Asian mission.

Although the trip will also take Shultz to South Korea and Hong Kong, it is aimed at developing ties with Peking.

Before he leaves for Peking Wednesday, Shultz will meet with Japanese officials to advance discussions held in Washington two weeks ago with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone and Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe.

Teachers' strike may be over

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A state-appointed "conciliator" Sunday announced a tentative settlement of a bitter, 82-day teacher strike in California. Pa., the longest public school walkout in Pennsylvania history.

Retired Pittsburgh labor lawyer William Hannan, who served as a fact-finder in the dispute, said "a determination has been reached on all issues." Classes were to resume today.

The four-year agreement still must be ratified by teachers and the school board and Hannan said no details would be released until then.

Bush starts European swing

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Vice President George Bush arrived in Bonn Sunday on what he called a mission of peace, confident of winning Western European backing for U.S. nuclear arms policy toward the Soviet Union.

"For nearly four decades we and our NATO allies have kept the peace in Europe... by being committed to genuine arms reduction," Bush said in an arrival statement at Bonn-Cologne airport. "That has been our policy and that remains our policy today."

California pushes Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — With the party activist President Reagan once told to "shut up" loudly voting no, the California Republican Party Sunday urged President Reagan and Vice President George Bush to seek re-election.

The resolution, offered by Sen. Pete Wilson, was adopted by voice vote by 770 delegates to the state party's convention.

Arms deals could cost U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High-interest loans used to bankroll U.S. military sales abroad could undermine the financial stability of some nations, short-circuiting repayments, and leave taxpayers holding the bag, a study for Congress warns.

In a 35-page report on the multi-billion dollar program not counted in the federal budget, the General Accounting Office urged the administration and Congress to reconsider how sales of U.S. weapons abroad are financed.

Since 1975, the government has used a guaranteed loan program — with interest charges up to 16 percent — to provide cash for more than $15 billion of military exports to countries facing severe economic problems.

Today's weather

Camas Prairie, Halley, Wood River valley:

Patches of night and morning fog in the valleys. Otherwise partly cloudy with a few mountain showers. Highs 34 to 40, lows 24 to 29.

Northern Nevada and Utah:

Fair today with increasing clouds Tuesday over northern Nevada with light showers late Tuesday. Snow level 5,000 feet. Lows 5 to 15 and highs upper 30s to 40s. Utah will have variable clouds today and Tuesday with widely scattered snow showers and some areas of night and morning fog. Highs mid 30s to mid 40s, lows upper teens and 20s.

Synopsis:

A weak ridge of high pressure built up over Idaho Sunday.

Although a few snow showers lingered in the northern and eastern parts of the state, the trend was toward decreasing clouds. Generally the forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and light winds today and Tuesday. There will be patches of night and morning fog in the valleys and a few snow showers in the mountains both days.

All stations reported precipitation from the Saturday storm, ranging from a few hundredths of an inch to 2.5 inch of moisture at Preston and 7 inches of snow in Sun Valley. Pocatello received 3 1/2 inches of snow.

Overnight lows were mostly in the 20s and low 30s. The coldest was 1 degree above zero at Stanley. Hagerman's 49 was the state's warmest as temperatures climbed to above normal Sunday in most of the sunny areas of the state.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same through Tuesday over northern and western Idaho, but will be a little warmer in eastern portions of the state by Tuesday. The extended forecast Wednesday through Friday is for mild.

Rubber boat best way to travel flooded streets in Sunset Beach, Calif., after heavy rains

Snow spreads across Arizona

By United Press International

California got a break Sunday from a storm cycle that caused $100 million damage in one week.

However, forecasters said more Pacific storms are backed up clear to Japan, and the next one should hit Monday night or Tuesday.

Coastal flood warnings from high waves remained in effect along the Southern California coast.

Snow fell Sunday over the central mountains of Arizona with 8 inches in the Hawley Lake area and 2 inches in McNary. A traveler's advisory was issued for snow, fog and freezing rain for the White Mountains in east-central Arizona.

Snow was scattered from Idaho across Wyoming and Utah through Minnesota to northern Indiana, with up to 4 inches on tap for Upper Michigan.

Snow changed to rain from southern lower Michigan to Pennsylvania, and rain extended over northern Georgia and Alabama, as well as northern Florida through southern North Carolina.

Rain also fell over northern New Mexico and the Washington coast. Patches of fog were reported over the Atlantic coastal states, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf.

In Illinois, a 32-year-old man was killed in a single-car accident about three miles south of New Athens. Police said the vehicle apparently ran off the road Saturday in thick fog — hitting a culvert.

A traveler's advisory was posted for parts of eastern New York and up to 3 inches of snow was expected to blanket the upper Hudson and Mohawk valleys by today.

The California Highway Patrol reported improved road conditions Sunday north and south of San Francisco, but said one bridge and some exits from U.S. 101 remained closed because of flooding.

Officers seize cocaine worth $28 million

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Law officers Sunday seized 150 pounds of cocaine, valued at $28.6 million, from a Colombian ship as packages of the drug were being strapped to couriers for transport ashore.

The FBI, city and county police, and harbor and customs officials took part in the pre-dawn raid aboard the freighter Ciudad de Santa Marta, a vessel of the Gran Colombiana Line anchored off the city's San Pedro harbor district.

Four women and at least 11 men were arrested and were being held without bail, police Detective Hank Foresta said. Two of those arrested were members of the ship's crew and most of the others were involved in transferring the drug, he said.

The suspects were scheduled for arraignment today in U.S. District Court on federal narcotics smuggling charges.

Foresta said the arrests and the seizure, the result of a lengthy investigation, were made as the suspects tried to transfer the drug, stashed in duffel bags in a crewman's quarters, ashore by way of couriers and a seaboat diver.

Budget

would be cut some $60 billion over the next five years by making patients pay more and paying doctors and hospitals less.

Also as part of the "health care reform" package, the government would begin taxing workers' employer-paid health insurance benefits if they exceed $175-a-month for a family plan and $70-a-month for an individual.

The new Reagan budget envisions spending $43 billion more in 1984 overall than this year. Military spending would account for about $30 billion of the total increase.

The proposal calls for a one-year freeze on federal civilian and military pay and farm price supports, and a six-month freeze on cost-of-living increases for recipients of Social Security, railroad retirement, veterans compensation and pensions, food stamps, child nutrition and other welfare programs.

It would also impose an "aggregate" spending freeze for the year on non-defense appropriated programs by allowing some to increase, some to be cut and others to remain the same.

Up to $150 billion in standby tax increases would also go into effect in 1985 if the budget deficit were still above about $100 billion, the economy was out of recession and Congress had enacted Reagan's proposed spending cuts.

"One reason this budget is more acceptable to Congress is that it is realistic and, if anything, is conservative," Laxalt said.

Withholding on interest repeal effort grows

By MARY BETH FRANKLIN
United Press International

WASHINGTON — A majority of House members and nearly a third of the Senate are co-sponsoring bills to repeal the new 10 percent withholding tax on interest and dividends scheduled to take effect July 1.

Banks, savings and loans and credit unions that are required to administer the new withholding provision are behind the massive lobbying effort in Congress.

Trade associations have sent their members kits containing pre-printed postcards to send to lawmakers, plus posters, sample speeches, newspaper column material and letters and newspaper advertisements, all aimed at repealing the law.

Members of Congress report they are receiving thousands of postcards each day, with the main targets Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., and House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

Neither tax-writing committee has scheduled hearings on the requirement, which was passed as part of the 1982 tax bill. So far, however, about 50 repealer bills have been introduced in House and Senate.

By Friday, 222 House members had signed to co-sponsor one or more of the repeal bills. A majority is 218. About 30 senators had agreed to co-sponsor similar legislation.

While the financial business complains a withholding tax would be an administrative nightmare, it has concentrated its campaign on the argument that the new law will mean less interest on customers' savings.

Proponents argue it is not a new tax, merely an enforcement of existing tax laws to accelerate the collection of revenue due by the government. Interest and dividends withheld by financial institutions would be credited against a taxpayer's income tax return at the end of the year.

The poor and elderly poor are exempt from the withholding requirement, but only if they filed an exemption certificate by Feb. 1.

The congressional Joint Tax Committee estimates the law will generate about $20 billion over five years, although spokesmen for the financial institutions questioned those figures.

William O'Connell, president of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, estimated the start-up cost at $435 million for his association's member institutions, plus $300 million a year to administer the law. Other trade associations did not have specific estimates available.

The institutions, which say they already are required to send taxpayers end-of-the-year statements on interest and dividends, argue that the Internal Revenue Service should be able to match up those statements with income tax returns.

SEN. PAUL LAXALT
Republican chairman

President will run: GOP head

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Paul Laxalt, new general chairman of the Republican National Committee, predicted Sunday President Reagan will seek re-election in 1984 and, in fact, "has the responsibility to run again."

The Nevada Republican, who moved into the GOP post last week, offered a split view on just how soon Reagan should declare his intention.

"I would think he could wait around," the senator said, adding, "If he chooses not to run, the announcement should be made earlier than otherwise," in fairness to other potential GOP candidates.

Laxalt, frequently called Reagan's closest friend on Capitol Hill, noted most leading Democratic candidates have been "out on the trail and raising money" for months, while potential Republican contenders await Reagan's decision.

During an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation," Laxalt was asked if he thinks Reagan will be a candidate in 1984. "I rather think he will be," Laxalt replied. "He really has the responsibility to run again."

Laxalt said he has no qualms about Reagan's remaining in the White House until a few weeks before his 78th birthday, when a second term would end.

Conceding he had had some concerns about Reagan's age during both the 1976 and 1980 campaigns, Laxalt said, "I'm convinced from looking at him that his physical and emotional health is in remarkably good shape."

In the event Reagan does not run, he was asked, is Vice President George Bush the strongest contender? "I don't think so," Laxalt replied.

If Reagan does not run, Laxalt said, "Bush is of course a strong contender. Whether he is leading or not, I just don't know. It would be totally up for grabs... a brand-new ball game."

Laxalt said Reagan's standing in public opinion polls — a disapproval rating above 50 percent in several recent national surveys — is not "surprising" considering the difficult "political decisions" he has had to make.

Laxalt also rejected criticism of Reagan from conservatives, saying, "Ever since I have been in this business, we have found within the Republican context we have extremes." Democrats, too, he said,

Regan says U.S. recovery starting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said Sunday the nation has started to bounce back from the recession, and insisted the third year of the administration's tax cut must be preserved to assure economic growth.

"We think we're on the threshold of the recovery," Regan said. "Indeed, I think it's already started."

In an interview on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley," Regan conceded he had "no tangible evidence" that the most severe recession since World War II has ended.

President Reagan's chief economic spokesman noted government fore-casters and many private economists had predicted last year the recession would be over by mid-1982, an assessment that clearly was wrong.

Regan, reacting to pressure from Capitol Hill, said the third year of the personal income tax cut — a 10 percent rate reduction set for July — is essential for sustained recovery.

"We're not to have the tax cut come July 1, we're going to take an awful lot of money out of the economy and give it to the federal government," Regan said. "I would much rather have that in the hands of consumers and savers and that what we intend to do."

House Democratic leader Jim

Wright Saturday proposed postponing or repealing the tax cut, saying the reduction "doesn't make any sense" in the face of record budget deficits that, by Regan's own projection, will be $206 billion this year.

Regan said unemployment, now at 10.8 percent with 12 million Americans out of work, will come down in the coming months to between 10.4 percent and 10 percent.

Commenting on the administration's standby tax increase proposal for fiscal 1986, Regan said it is necessary to have that authority in order to drive down interest rates further.

He said with a 5 percent growth in the economy, no new taxes would be needed because, "If you have an economy that's growing," so will government revenues. Administration projections, however, set the economic growth rate lower than 5 percent, meaning the income tax surcharge and added oil fees Reagan is proposing would be needed in the fall of 1985.

In a separate interview on the same program, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said, "I say, this point in time, (there is) no chance" Congress will approve standby taxes.

Rostenkowski, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, also endorsed the idea of placing "perhaps a $700 cap" on the third-year tax cut.

Accused extortionist disliked pen treatment

CHICAGO (UPI) — Accused Tylenol extortionist James W. Lewis complained to United Press International about his treatment in a federal penitentiary in Kansas but voiced no complaints about his new prison in Chicago, his chief supporter said Sunday.

Federal officials moved Lewis from Leavenworth, Kan., to Chicago's Metropolitan Correctional Center Friday pending his scheduled Feb. 14 Chicago court date on charges he tried to extort $1 million from the makers of Tylenol. He was being held in Kansas pending a trial there Feb. 28 on land fraud, mail fraud and income tax evasion.

MCC officials refused comment Sunday on Lewis' status and activities, saying only a press spokesman who works today to Friday could answer questions.

"I think it's scandalous the way they treated Jim at Leavenworth," said Theodore Otteson, a former client of Lewis' Kansas City tax preparation business. He is trying with little success to raise funds for Lewis' defense in the Tylenol case.

Lewis is accused of sending a letter to the makers of Tylenol demanding $1 million to "stop the killings" at the time of the seven Chicago deaths caused by Tylenol capsules spiked with cyanide.

Shortly after he was indicted on the extortion charge, he was suspected of threatening President Reagan in a letter saying he would use remote control model airplanes to attack the White House. The letter also warned of more cyanide killings.

The United Press International bureau in Kansas City, Mo., received a letter from Lewis Saturday complaining he was kept in solitary confinement and denied access to a telephone while in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

Otteson said Lewis telephoned him in Kansas City Saturday from Chicago to say he had been moved, and to complain about conditions at Leavenworth.

Otteson said Lewis told him he was limited to wearing just underwear in his room at Leavenworth, and could dress only when being moved somewhere. Lewis complained he had no calendar, but did have a broken window which would chill a cup of water to ice water.

"It's fine up there (in Chicago)," Otteson said. "They can call out any time, they have private rooms, recreational facilities. He can go up on the roof and go outside."

Clergyman free today

PLATTSBURGH, Neb. (UPI) — The release of the Rev. Everett Silven from the Cass County Jail today signals the end — or the start — of another chapter in his five-year battle against state-certified teachers in church schools.

There was no word from officials at Silven's Faith Baptist Church or its Faith Christian School in Louisville on whether classes would be resumed.

Silven was to be released Monday morning after completing a much-interrupted four-month contempt term for operating an unaccredited school in defiance of a court order.

The preacher contends state regulation of church schools, including a requirement that state-certified teachers be used, violates constitutional guarantees of religious freedom.

The certification issue has sprung up in other Nebraska communities.

Deadly fevers added to quarantine list

ATLANTA (UPI) — The nation's foreign quarantine regulations are being revised for the first time in nearly 30 years to list a deadly array of fevers capable of creating a public health threat if brought into this country.

The new regulations are expected to become law soon with the signing of an executive order by President Reagan. The last time the regulations were revised in their entirety was in 1956.

The changes delete a long list of diseases with which quarantine officers at U.S. ports of entry will no longer be concerned. But the new directive retains certain ailments and adds others which could bar or delay entry of travelers into the United States.

The additions include a group of virulent tropical hemorrhagic fevers that have fatality rates of up to 50 percent. Victims are stricken with high fevers and internal bleeding that lead quickly to death. They are highly infectious and there are no specific treatments. Prevention includes placing the patient in strictly enforced quarantine for at least three weeks.

The new quarantinable diseases include Lassa, Marburg, Ebola, Congo-Crimean and other viral hemorrhagic fevers which occur in tropical climates, particularly Africa, but have not yet been isolated or named.

If you desire a son, fee of $200 can help

SAUSALITO, Calif. (UPI) — For $200, couples wanting a son can produce one 76 percent of the time, says the developer of a method that helps parents select the sex of their baby.

The technique will not lead to a nation of firstborn boys, Ronald Ericsson of Gametrics Ltd., said Sunday, noting most of his customers are parents with daughters who now want a boy.

"They're not using it to select the sex of their firstborn," he said. "They don't come to us until they've had two or three of the same sex."

He said the old worries that if people could choose the sex of their children, it would lead to generations dominated by men are unfounded.

The technology for choosing a baby's sex remains imperfect and cumbersome, he said, predicting it would not be used on a large scale at least in the near future.

Surveys among Americans show the preference for male babies is not strong enough to shift the one-to-one sex ratio significantly or produce a nation of firstborn sons, Ericsson said.

Ericsson, who has a Ph.D. in reproductive physiology and also markets a sex-selection method for cattle, has licensed his system to 17 fertility centers around the world.

Since 1975, 76 percent of the 171 women artificially inseminated with sperm prepared according to his technique gave birth to the sons they wanted.

Mormon series brings continuing response from readers

Articles downgrade church

In regards to your articles on the Mormons that are being published in the interest of informative and impartial journalism for the public benefit and for the good of Mormon and non-Mormon alike, may I suggest to the people of Magic Valley, that Mr. Farrell is not interested in presenting the true picture of the Mormon Church but has a direct interest in downgrading the Mormon Church because of its high morals and stand against pornography.

His interests lie in promoting the availability of pornographic material at our public libraries, schools, newsstands and television, including cable television.

We do not feel that Mr. Farrell and others are in the employ of public interest or well-being or honest informative journalism, but rather, the employ of the wealth of the smut and fifth peddlers of the nation. As a Bryant gave her career for this very thing — speaking out against evil and wrong doing, Christians of Magic Valley: Recognize this for what it is!

Long-time subscribers, but wondering? J. RUSSELL NELSON AND LOYDEA NELSON Jerome

Explains why he quit paper

This is the first letter I have ever written to the public forum and most likely my last. In the past I have been able to overlook the mistakes one finds daily in your paper, but this Mormonism article which takes up a big part of your paper I cannot overlook. I realize that you may not necessarily be a Mormon, but I feel that you must have had great influence from church leaders to print this article.

I do want you to know, however that the second publication of this article on Monday, Jan. 24 caused me to call my carrier and cancel my subscription to your paper. I only wish that space would allow me to elaborate on the numerous examples that caused me to feel as I do.

You say that perhaps in the future you will feature their religions, but will you and you allow them equal time and especially equal space? I feel the public should be made aware of the difference between Mormonism and Christianity. I and my wife found the difference. I used to be a Mormon until a little over two years ago, although I had joined a true Christian church some time before that; the LDS said once a Mormon always a Mormon and they would not leave me alone. So I took care of that little problem and requested to be excommunicated, which was granted.

I grew up in a Mormon household, my mother and all her ancestors were Mormons. Some even held Brigham Young build the town of Fillmore and other communities in Utah. My great-grandfather came west pulling one of the Mormon handcarts.

Needless to say, I should be a good practicing Mormon today, but I never found true happiness or love for Christ and my fellow man and the love I received in return until I was baptized into the Church of Christ and became a Christian.

Series puts church down

In response to the Dee Burgess letter in the Jan. 25 issue of The Times-News, if he had read and known even the slightest about the LDS faith he would realize that these articles on the Mormons are nothing but slanderous, hypocritical, backstabbing put downs to any faithful Latter-day Saint member and the church in general.

If Dee Burgess would like the same done to and for the other faiths that were mentioned, I myself would readily accept and gladly read about the great and numerous faults of these other religions as stated by a reporter whose job it is to cut up God-fearing people and their faiths, the reporter himself most likely not of the faith involved.

The articles are obviously not slanted from the LDS view. If others are written by or for other faiths and are slanted in their direction, the Mormons deserve one slanted for them, not against them.

LONNIE ZELLER Hazelton

Stories are informative

I find the articles you are currently running from the Denver Post to be very interesting and informative. I also agree that the writer John Aloysius Farrell's series is a true display of American journalism.

I think he has done a splendid job of showing how the main body of the LDS church follows the authoritarian leadership of the church without question. I have also been following the letters to the editor and they clearly display this same trait.

For an example, one writer stated, "If anyone is really interested in finding the real truth I recommend 'A Marvelous Work and A Wonder' by LeGrand Richards." Well, I am really interested in finding the real truth, so I picked up "A Marvelous Work and A Wonder," as the writer suggested.

The Book of Mormon was mentioned in the articles so I decided to see what "A Marvelous Work and A Wonder" had to say about the book. This information is found in Chapter 8, page 70, titled "Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon." LeGrand Richards states: "Modern archeological research has accounted for many of these buried cities; uncovered ancient highways mentioned in the Book of Mormon; and located temples and other magnificent buildings erected by those people who reached a high stage of civilization and culture in the land of America. The tradition of the Indian confirm these facts." (A Marvelous Work and A Wonder).

While most LDS believe the above statement modern archeological research states the following: "The Smithsonian Institution has never used the Book of Mormon in any way as a scientific guide. Smithsonian archeologists see no connection between the archeology of the New World and the subject matter of the book. No reputable Egyptologist or other specialist in Old World archeology, and no expert on New World prehistory, has discovered or confirmed any relationship between archeological remains in Mexico and archeological remains in Egypt." (Open letter Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.D. 20560)

Also, the National Geographic Society states: "I referred your inquiry to Dr. George Stuart, the staff archeologist of the National Geographic Society. He informed me that neither the Society nor any other institution of equal prestige has ever used the Book of Mormon in locating archeological sites. Although many Mormon sources claim that the Book of Mormon has been substantiated by archeological findings, this claim has not been verified scientifically." (Open letter National Geographic Society, Dec. 23, 1982)

It appears to me that modern archeological research does not prove the Book of Mormon as LeGrand Richards claims.

I hope your articles will prompt the LDS to think for themselves and discover the side of Mormonism not disclosed by their leaders. Again, many thanks for your efforts to inform the Mormon and non-Mormon. VIRGIL JENNINGS Shoshone

Certain that it's all true

Your articles on Mormonism have been greatly appreciated. I lived in Provo, Utah for over 30 years before coming to Twin Falls. After reading about some of the things that went on in the community that I didn't even know about (until I read these articles), I'm glad I moved.

I'm sure everything in your article is true. After all, you certainly wouldn't print anything in your newspaper unless it was true! It certainly sounds like all Mormons are scoundrels in the worst sense. I, for one, feel that they should all be run out of town. Anyone who doesn't drink, smoke, drink coffee, carry on, must lead a miserable existence. I don't think anyone should be allowed to live like this in Twin Falls.

Author Farrell has made some very interesting points. He certainly could have had a job writing about the Jews under Hitler. I am waiting for more articles about the Baptists, Catholics, blacks and Jews. Let's get rid of everyone with a firm conviction in anything in this community and Utah! BRYANT HATCH Twin Falls

More good than realized

Regarding the "Mormon" intellectuals and other members seeking to make changes in the church because of proof some beliefs are wrong.

Anything can be proven by the Bible! Nothing can be proven by the Bible! Scientists can prove anything! Scientists can disprove anything.

Jesus the Christ, only, was ever perfect. Moses, because of human weakness, was not allowed to lead his people into the promised land. Peter to whom the Christ gave the "keys to the kingdom of heaven" denied Him three times. Yet you expect your leaders to be perfect.

Jesus the Christ established His church and called his apostles and prophets and when their teachings seemed harsh, they crucified the head of the church. They murdered the prophets and apostles, but never, ever, did God's people voice a leader and hire another to replace him. Regardless of freedom or "free agency."

To the minister who is going to use these articles to teach his congregation, I cannot find enough time in his class to teach what little I know of the Bible. Study the Bible then, you won't need a crutch. People are hungry for the truths of the Bible while many of them could care less or even believe The Times-News.

I am one "Mormon" finding these articles interesting. Far more so than Doonsberry. I believe The Times-News has unwittingly done the "Mormons" of the valley more good than they realize — Luke 6:26.

'Glad to be a fanatic'

I was not going to send a letter in response to the articles on the Mormons; but when I saw through the "Letters to the Editor" what people believed about it, I felt I had to respond. Enclosed is a letter I have sent to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kennedy, showing them that Mormons really do believe in the Bible. I know it is too lengthy to print, but I want you to know it too.

I also want you to know that if living the teachings contained therein makes one a fanatic, I'm glad I'm a fanatic! I challenge anyone who honestly wants to know what we are like to visit any meeting house on Sunday (or any other time you see the lights on) and/or call any of the bishops' phone numbers in the phone book — yellow pages under churches — Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Week of divers works

The 11th Article of Faith of the LDS (Mormon) Church states,

"We claim the privilege of worshipping Almighty God according to the dictates of our own conscience, and allow all men the same privilege, let them worship how, where, or what they may."

In the Book of Matthew, you can read that every man shall receive a reward according to his works.

This past week has been one of divers works in our Magic Valley. I hope we will each be eternally happy with our rewards.

Invisible costs balloon

WASHINGTON — What will Congress do about the ballooning costs of running for federal office? The answer, I fear, is not much, and that prospect troubles me — for the costs are both visible and invisible, and the invisible costs may be greater.

The problem has been with us forever. More than 75 years ago, Theodore Roosevelt was plumping for federal financing of federal campaigns. In the 1920s, Teapot Dome set off cries for election reform. The Watergate scandal intensified the demand for disclosure of political contributions. Now that some sobering figures are floating in from last November's elections, the subject is once more a matter of public concern.

Let me sketch my own ambivalence clearly. I am not greatly worried by the dollar amounts as such; as a people we annually spend more on toothpaste, mouthwash and liquor than we spend on our biennial elections. Except for the weakening effect they have on our two-party system, I am not much troubled by the proliferation of political action committees (PACs) in the private sector. Neither am I perturbed that with all this money floating around, incidents of outright bribery are likely to multiply. There may be times, as the Absecon cases demonstrated, when some member of the House or Senate sells his influence for a few thousand bucks, but these felonies are exceedingly rare. Outright bribery is too crude, and it carries too many risks.

But when all that has been said, much remains to be said. By any yardstick, the costs of running for high public office are getting out of hand. We now have reliable estimates, drawn from reports to the Federal Election Commission, that last November saw more than $300 million spent on House and Senate campaigns. Mark Dayton spent $7.1 million on his losing Senate race in Minnesota; Frank Lautenberg spent $5.2 million on his winning race in New Jersey. The two Senate candidates in California spent more than $12 million between them. Five candidates for the House spent more than a million dollars each.

Debate on Mormon series may leave out other views

Newspapers often publish controversial material, but rarely have we handled a subject as volatile as the Denver Post's series on the Mormon Church and its connections to the state of Utah.

The series deals with matters of public policy — education, politics, censorship and economics — but it also looks into theological issues. In doing so, it skirts the territory of personal belief.

Some letter-writers suggest a newspaper should never explore such matters, that they are entirely matters of faith. Others say the pieces are slanted either in favor of or against the Mormon religion. Still others take the opportunity to proselytize.

What the letters do reflect is a position that may be widely held in the valley: that the series is a challenging analysis that cuts pretty much down the middle.

I have had a large number of people tell me they see it that way. Including several local public officials and community leaders.

But those individuals — Mormons and non-Mormons alike, who must work and live with, and be voted into and out of office by Mormons and non-Mormons alike — have nothing to gain by "going public" with that view. As one said, "You're out there alone on this one."

Maybe. It appears to me the letters-to-the-editor debate has been left in large part to Mormon defenders on the one side and evangelical Christians on the other. Both sides have made attractive statements.

Compared to many other areas in America, the Magic Valley, in my view, is a highly homogeneous community. The Mormon/non-Mormon split may be the major social division in the valley, something which everyone who lives here or moves here soon becomes aware of.

To some people, southern Idaho is in neither camp, reflecting neither the large Mormon presence of, say, eastern Idaho, nor the small Mormon presence of, say, northern Idaho.

That makes it unclaimed territory for religious dominance by any group, and that may be why a series like this strikes such loud chords. The series is written as a newspaper in Colorado about a religion in Utah, but not one writer has argued it isn't relevant here.

For some people, I would guess, the articles reinforce already-held principles. Last week, for example, I attended one of three showings of a film about Mormonism, sponsored by a group of ex-Mormons. The crowd was perhaps 600 or 800 people. From the questions, the talk among people and the response of the crowd to part of the film, I came away with the impression that many people there accepted the film's anti-Mormon themes.

The film was sponsored by a group of ex-Mormons called Saints Alive in Jesus, which for some time — long before the series even was written — has had a paid advertisement in The Times-News classified section, providing a telephone number for people to call for a recorded message.

Recently content of both news and advertising. If we publish material that is libelous or defames or that is in poor taste, we are responsible for it.

So we in the news/business exercise considerable care on inderhal of all kinds. We routinely reject, for example, X-rated motion-picture ads, as we do advertising that contains a fraudulent message or is in poor taste.

Are we limiting the ex-Mormon group's freedom of speech by turning down this particular ad? I don't think so. There are about 14 radio stations in the Magic Valley, television outlets, handbills, a long list of weekly papers, direct mail, posters, billboards, and of course, word of mouth. In short, there are many ways in which a group can advertise a message, whatever it may be.

But the government cannot pass a law telling us what we must and cannot publish. That, in my mind, is how it should be in a free society.

Stephen Hartgen is managing editor of The Times-News.

They're old enough to fight

In regards to raising the drinking age: How can the law take the privilege away from 19 and 20 year olds who have had the experience to reminisce in drinking parlors and buy alcohol in stores? Are the anti-alcoholists in us? "Sorry people, but we raised the drinking age. You cannot have the privilege now; even though you've been buying alcoholic beverages for one or two years." And what about grocery checkers, bartenders, and bar maids under "21"? We are all worried about unemployment, but, are they going to be percentages added to the unemployment surveys? Eighteen, 19 and 20-year-olds are old enough to fight in a war (if there is one), but are not old enough to drink. Kind of funny isn't it?

Waitress' letter wins support

I would like to congratulate Alice Merkley for speaking out in her letter in The Times-News, Jan. 26, 1983, about the tax on waitress tips. They are one of the lowest paid professionals in America. If they are the only supporter of a family, that family must be deprived of a lot of necessary medical attention and maybe not afford a proper home.

Our government seems to be able to create a lot of loopholes for rich people to lower their taxes, but a waitress would be taxed even if she didn't get a dime's tip. About the next thing we will hear is the government will put a tax on pre-school children's piggy banks.

Judge provides judicial balance

Judge Meehl too soft? In almost every case I have read, when the Magic Valley youth have come up against Harry DeHann he seems awfully quick to lock them up and throw away the key. Just what does he have against our kids anyway?

Now he wants a free hand to do just that by getting Judge Daniel Meehl out of his way. These juvenile delinquents need help, not persecution.

If we don't have someone like Judge Meehl to help get our youth on the right side of the law, then the state prison would be full of Magic Valley juvenile criminals regardless of whether their crimes were violent or not. I can't believe sending a youth to prison will shape them up. Just look what they could learn from rapists, murderers, gun-toting robbers, etc.

With DeHann's outlook on our youth, I believe we need Judges like Daniel Meehl for a good balance of Justice. MR. AND MRS. RONNIE LEMKE Jackpot

Build more of those big targets

One (1) small war (Falkland Islands). One (1) airplane pilot. One (1) airplane. One (1) guided missile. One (1) British battleship. One (1) guided missile put one (1) battleship out of commission.

Now how about that for economy in warfare — you politicians. Let's build more big targets, you dummies! EARL ETTERSR, Jr. Jerome

One way to get them the word

We the voters and taxpayers would like this service. We would like a list of names and addresses of all our public servants listed once or twice a month so that the voter-taxpayer can get our ideas, YES or NO, into their offices in time to do some good.

We have small computers of all kinds and could put one in each office so our public servants could push a button and know the wishes of their voters.

Igloos provided a night's shelter for some Scouts

String first tool for building igloo

TWIN FALLS — The first and most essential thing needed for building an igloo is a piece of string.

That was one of the amazing bits of winter survival information offered during a Boy Scout winter encampment and snow-shelter-building course, held Friday and Saturday.

About 100 Boy Scouts and leaders gathered Friday night and Saturday at the Bennett Springs campground, south of Albion, to learn winter camping and survival techniques.

Varsity Scouts, an adventure group of 13- and 14-year-olds from four districts of the Snake River Council, spent the time building igloos, snow caves and snow shelters.

Before the camp broke late Saturday, there were several igloos dotting the campground that would have made an Eskimo feel at home.

Monte Carlson, a Twin Falls attorney, was the expert on building the unique snow shelters.

"The trick is to get the center, or rounded portion of the roof, properly built so it will not cave in," he explained.

Carlson said the string is necessary for several tasks.

First, it is used to mark the igloo pattern. With one end of the string stuck in the snow with an arrow, the string is moved in a circle, to mark the exact size of the structure and locate the foundation.

Then, the string is used to shape the blocks of snow evenly and in the shape needed to fit together at an angle that will support the curved dome of the igloo.

In addition to string, an igloo-builder needs a lot of hard-packed snow and the energy for digging. At the camp, a snowmobile was used to run over the snow and pack it to the consistency needed for cutting building blocks.

Snow caves, tunnels, tent trenches, fire pits and even snow lean-to structures also were built by the Scouts, as they learned how to use the insulation provided by the snow and a small enclosure to retain body heat.

Most of the Scouts questioned said they believed they could survive several days and nights in the woods during winter after experiencing the two-day event.

Larry Olsen of Buhl, an expert on wilderness existence, helped coach the Scouts and their leaders in the art of winter survival and shelter-building.

The group arrived at the mountain camp about 7 p.m. Friday. They set up camp with the help of a full moon.

By 10 p.m., they had built shelters and excavated large foundations for pitching tents several feet below the top surface of the snow, which was at the six-foot level.

"It was zero when we went to bed, but there wasn't a single complaint about being cold," said Keith Egbert, one of the camp directors. "In fact, some were shedding heavy clothes because they were too warm."

In Carlson's igloo, two leaders and two boys slept the night in cozy warmth.

"It was about 36 degrees inside during the night. In fact, it was so warm the inside of the walls and ceiling dripped a little, but that created ice, and made the structure stronger," Carlson said.

By Saturday, it was overcast and snowing lightly, but the boys continued digging their structures, each having a chance to work on all forms of shelter.

"It takes a lot of shoveling," said one Scout, after he explained that his snow cave and tunnel led back about seven feet under the snow.

But for the hard-working boys there were hearty meals.

Scout leader Dennis Sudweeks of Kimberly volunteered venison for the stew served Friday night. He also whipped up and baked a cherry cobbler.

Breakfast on Saturday consisted of steak, eggs, hash-brown potatoes and hot drinks. Wassail — a hot fruit-juice drink — and hot chocolate were available throughout the day to keep the workers warm.

Contract extension Jerome school head given another year

JEROME — The Jerome school board has extended the contract of Superintendent Stephenson Youngerman for an additional year.

Youngerman was given a contract extension following a special closed meeting of the school board recently. He has served as superintendent for the past five-and-a-half months.

Board Chairman Nancy Churchman says that when Youngerman was hired last fall, he was given a two-year contract, and now, this has been increased to three years.

"The board is very satisfied with his five-and-one-half months here. We set some goals (for Youngerman) at the first of the year, and there has been action taken on almost every one of them," Churchman said.

"Some are long-range and are not completed, but the board feels the time he has been in the district has been very beneficial and productive to our school system," Churchman said the board was unanimous in its enthusiasm over Youngerman's service. Communication between the administration, board and faculty are good, she said, and morale in the entire district is good.

TWIN FALLS — A year after the YFCA reopened, its books are still in the "red," but board members say the facility is in the pink of health.

For calendar year 1982, the Y ran a deficit of about $13,700. However, a deficit of $23,336 had been projected.

"We're extremely happy with the $13,000 deficit," says James Tarter, the newly elected president of the Y board. "We started with an empty building, zero membership and programs that did not start until mid-year. . . . You don't open a facility and start making money the first day."

According to budget information released at the last Y board meeting, in 1982, the Y netted revenues of $136,890, compared to projected revenues of $133,856. In the same year, expenses ran $150,568, compared to projected expenses of $157,194.

The Y now has nearly 600 memberships, and its programs are almost filled, Tarter says.

"We did better than what we thought we would.

We were able to significantly cut expenses."

For 1983, the board projects that total revenues will equal total expenses, at $189,017.

"We're hoping to be a very small amount in the 'black.' We still have a long way to go," Tarter says.

The 1983 budget is based on these major assumptions: annual memberships will rise by 50 percent; monthly membership will stabilize at a draw rate of $2,000 a month; a sustaining membership campaign will be initiated; and three special events will be held.

Major risks outlined by the board's financial planning committee includes the possibility that memberships will not rise by 50 percent; that major facility or equipment repairs may become necessary; and that utility rates will increase greater than expected.

Various contingency plans — to be used if needed — include these options: deferring the addition of a program director; holding an additional special event; and developing a plan to free interest from the Y's trust fund to offset facility rental expenses.

A major fund-raising campaign, occurring more than a year ago, succeeded in raising enough funds to cover the mortgage costs of the facility and other related expenses.

A separate fund-raising effort among the Y board members brought in about $40,000, which was earmarked for start-up and operating costs, Tarter says.

This fund has ensured that the Y starts 1983 with a "reasonable (cash) reserve," he says.

Funds for covering the cost of the Y's building will continue to come from the three-year pledges gathered in the community-wide fund-raising campaign.

"There's a substantial amount of pledges to collect. If they do not come in, we're in trouble," Tarter says.

However, the record of collection has been "extremely good," he says. "We're hoping the community feels the same obligation as they have in the past."

Council considers zone case findings

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Council will hold a special meeting today to belatedly approve findings of fact in a zoning decision made nearly two years ago.

The decision, which in effect blocked a shopping mall project by Price Development Corp. of Salt Lake City, had been challenged in court by the developer. The challenge was upheld by Fifth District Judge Douglas Kramer, but the case eventually was aired before the Idaho Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court reversed Kramer's decision and sent the case back to the local district court, with instructions that Kramer obtain "findings of fact" from city officials and issue another decision.

Findings of fact and conclusions of law now are routinely approved in all Twin Falls city zoning decisions. They represent the assumptions about law and circumstances on which decisions are based.

However, the city had not set up procedures for preparing findings of fact when the Price Corp. asked the city to rezone — from residential to commercial — seven acres of a 38-acre site, off Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Price was seeking to build an indoor shopping mall on that site. After receiving protests from residents of a nearby subdivision, council denied the request, but it did not draw up or approve findings of fact at that time.

On Monday, council will review a draft of the findings of fact on the Price case, prepared by Susan Swanberg, the city's attorney.

The meeting will be held at 4 p.m. A work session will follow.

Pocatello driver cited after accident

TWIN FALLS — A Pocatello motorist has been cited for driving while intoxicated after his car jumped a curb and struck a pedestrian Sunday morning in Twin Falls.

Marsha J. Perkins, of Route 3, Twin Falls, no age given, was treated at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and released.

Twin Falls police said the accident occurred in front of the 7-11 store at 509 Kimberly Road about 1:08 a.m. Sunday.

Gerald Dennis Lanier of Pocatello was parked in front of the store, and witnesses told police he raced his motor for about a minute and the car then jumped the curb, striking the woman.

Woman faces hearing of theft charge

JEROME — Magistrate Judge Roger Burdick of Jerome has ordered an 18-year-old Jerome woman held for a preliminary hearing on grand-theft charges.

Elaine McNevin of Jerome was arrested in Pocatello recently on charges of auto theft. After being returned to Jerome, she was being held in the Jerome County Jail, in lieu of $2,500 bond.

McNevin is charged with taking a 1968 pickup truck owned by Bill Hurd of Jerome and driving it to Pocatello.

Boisean draws prison term

TWIN FALLS — An 18-year-old Boise man, who was charged with going on a spending spree with someone else's credit card, has been ordered to spend four months at the state's minimum-security correctional facility.

John Edward Whitlow was ordered sent to the North Idaho Correctional Institution at Cottonwood after he pleaded guilty last week to the charges filed against him. The plea came during a Fifth District Court hearing in Twin Falls.

According to the charge, Whitlow used a stolen credit card on Dec. 4 to purchase $118 worth of clothing at The Mode LTD, 705 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., and $28 worth of lodging at Weston's Lamplighter, 906 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.

Judge Daniel Meehl sentenced Whitlow to serve the first 120 days of an eight-year prison sentence at NICI. Following the four-month term, Whitlow will be eligible for probation.

Man faces burglary charge

TWIN FALLS — A 20-year-old Buhl man has been arrested on burglary charges.

Tony Kuntz, of Route 3, Buhl, was arraigned last week in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Twin Falls on a charge that he, along with a co-defendant, burglarized a Melon Valley ranch earlier this month.

Bond has been set at $5,000. Kuntz is charged with the Jan. 2 burglary of a power-plant facility at the Dan Skeem property in Melon Valley. Several batteries and a battery charger were taken in the burglary.

The public defender has been appointed to represent Kuntz.

The co-defendant in the case, 23-year-old Stan Vincent, of Route 4, Buhl, was arrested earlier this month on first-degree burglary charges. He remained free Thursday on $2,500 bond.

Burglary suspect arrested

BURLEY — A man suspected of burglarizing the state liquor store in Burley has been arrested by Burley police.

After obtaining a search warrant, police arrested Reynold David Garcia, 22, from California, at 700 Conant St. in Burley on Friday, according to police.

Garcia has been charged with first-degree burglary in connection with the Nov. 19 break-in at the state liquor store in Burley.

At the time of the arrest, Garcia was staying with friends, whose names were not released, said Detective Lynn Smith.

While investigating Garcia as a suspect in the burglary, in which 30 half-gallon bottles of liquor were stolen, Detective Pete Rodriguez discovered that Garcia also was wanted for a parole violation in California.

Being held in the Cassia County Jail, in lieu of $20,000 bond, Garcia was arraigned Friday morning on the burglary charge.

Crash injures Hailey woman

HAILEY — A Hailey woman suffered leg injuries in a one-car rollover Saturday evening on icy Idaho 75.

According to an Idaho State Police officer, Barbara Peak, 21, was taken to the Blaine County Hospital in Hailey after the accident. She was a passenger in a vehicle driven by her husband, Ronald R. Peak, 38, of Hailey.

Hospital officials said Sunday that Peak had been released.

The Peak vehicle went out of control and overturned about five miles south of Ketchum at 6:35 p.m.

Officers in Blaine County said another vehicle had stopped at the side of the highway and pulled into traffic as the Peak vehicle and another car approached. The car ahead of the Peaks was able to avoid a collision, but by the time Peak saw the vehicle, there was little he could do on the icy highway, officers said.

Dear Abby

Each lover waits til other moves

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: No lectures, please. Just advice. I'm in love with a married man. (I'm also married.)

"J." and I are not teen-agers. We're two mature adults who agree that we belong together, but the timing was wrong. Had we met while we were both single, we would have been married. We are so right for each other.

We've been seeing each other for three years. My husband doesn't suspect anything and neither does his wife. In fact, we are a very friendly foursome.

I have not told my husband yet because I want to be absolutely sure that J. will leave his wife to marry me. (She has Parkinson's disease in the early stages and it may get worse with time.)

J. says he will not ask his wife for a divorce until he's sure I am leaving my husband. Who should make the first move?

DEAR ABBY: There is more than an "Alphonse-Gaston minute" going on here. You and J. may feel that you "belong" together, but you obviously don't trust each other.

There is also the problem of J.'s dealing with his guilt if he leaves an ailing wife. Before you try to figure out how to work your scheme into a reality, you need to get some professional help and make a decision you can both live with.

Meanwhile, unless and until you get professional help, you're asking for deep trouble if you continue to "see each other."

DEAR ABBY: The other evening at dinner I jokingly said to my husband, "I'll bet your girlfriend's name is the same as mine."

He said, "It sure is. That way I won't get you two mixed up." But, Abby, as he was saying this, he became so flustered he poured too much ketchup on his plate, and his face got as red as the ketchup he was pouring.

What are your comments? He travels a lot in his business.

DEAR LOST: Maybe you "red" more into his words that you should have. Always assume a person is innocent until you ketchup to him.

DEAR ABBY: Exactly what are the responsibilities of a godmother? Here's the situation: I have a friend. We're close, but not that close. "Molly" has a 3-year-old child and she's expecting another any day now. She is also being divorced.

I am a professional woman, single and childless. The other night we met for dinner. (We do that once or twice a year.) During dinner Molly asked me to be her baby's godmother. I accepted on an impulse and we went on to talk about other things.

Now I'm having second thoughts. If something happens to the mother, isn't the godmother supposed to adopt her child? Now I regret having accepted so hastily. To be honest, I really don't want to be her baby's godmother. How can I get out of it without putting a strain on our friendship?

SPOKE TOO SOON

DEAR SPOKE: You may not be able to. But feeling as you do, tell Molly that you have had second thoughts and wish to decline the honor of being her baby's godmother.

The obligation of a godparent is essentially to see that the child is raised in the same faith as the parents. However, godparents do not, as many assume, have any obligation to give financial assistance or to adopt children who lose their parents. That is the responsibility of the guardian.

Colon spasm may result in pain

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR DR. LAMB: I received your letter on diverticulosis and learned more from it than the $35 office call to my doctor who has diagnosed it. He put me on a bland diet.

I have been careful to use lots of bulk in my diet, including bran, cereals and leafy vegetables but I seem to get pains at least once a month and cannot pinpoint the cause.

Would I get pains right after eating the wrong food or do the pains come from foods eaten several days before? I read that it takes 48 hours for food to digest. I am a mother of six children and am 55 years old.

DEAR READER: You have made an assumption that is not necessarily true—that your pain is caused by the food you eat. Diverticulosis, those small pockets of the colon, are usually painless.

Usually the only time they cause pain is when one is inflamed, like an inflamed appendix. The intermittent pains most people who have diverticulosis complain about are more likely caused by a spasm of the colon.

Many authorities think the little pockets are caused by an underlying spastic colon that causes pressure inside the colon and the little pockets are really pressure blow-outs.

The colon is a muscular tube and can go into spasm at any time. With its normal rhythmic contractions it is less likely to do so, and normal rhythmic contractions are more likely to occur if you have sufficient bulk in your colon. Coffee, including decaffeinated brands, may irritate the colon and cause spasms. So can stress.

Digestion is usually accomplished within a few hours after eating. Digestion is mostly in the first part of the small intestine. But moving the food residue, after digestion, through the colon may take 48 hours.

I'm glad you were able to use the information in The Health Letter 5-6, Diverticulosis. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Will you please comment on the effects of consumption of soft drinks, Coca-Cola, pops, etc., also the homemade punches made with Kool-Aid? What about their sugar content and the effects on the body, especially teeth?

DEAR READER: A recent report in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association pointed out that such soft drinks could have two main drawbacks. First, if they were substituted for milk they deprived the individual of an important source of calcium and second, many of these contained a lot of phosphorus.

The thrust of the comment was that, until we know, a lot more about the effects of increased phosphorus in the diet, it could be thought that such a habit could affect bone formation, particularly in people subject to osteoporosis.

Of course, this applies to growing children as well, since calcium intake and perhaps the calcium to phosphorus ratio is so important to bone formation.

The amount of phosphorus in a 12-ounce serving of Coca-Cola is 69.9 mg; for Diet Pepsi, 49.3 mg; and Kool-Aid, 31.6 mg. But 7-UP, Crap-mont orange, Canada Dry ginger ale and A&W root beer contained less than 3 mg.

Excessively sweet drinks, of course, are known to be associated with dental problems, but sticky or solid sweet foods that stick to teeth may be worse than liquids.

Edwards named to program

TWIN FALLS: Joan E. Edwards, associate professor in charge of Institutional research and development at the College of Southern Idaho, is one of 100 top women in management who has been chosen to participate in a nationwide leadership-training program.

The program is financed through a grant from the Fund for Improvement of Postsecondary Education. She was selected from a field of several thousand applicants.

The program, "Leaders for the '80s," is designed to assist community college women to assume major policy-making positions during the decade.

During the six-month program, participants will be paired with mentors at their colleges to work on a research project that will aid their institution, participate in special regional workshops and national conferences, and become involved with other women in top administrative positions.

Participants were chosen for their interest in advancement in community college administration and the quality of their proposed project to develop new skills, as well as benefiting their home institution.

The project is sponsored by the League for Innovation in Community Colleges, a consortium of 18 community college districts nationwide, and by the American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges. Maricopa Community Colleges in Phoenix, Ariz., is conducting the program.

Edwards earned her bachelor's degree in education from the University of Idaho, a master's degree in Special Education from the University of Idaho and a doctorate in higher education from Nova University, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She maintained a 4.0 grade-point average throughout her college studies.

In 1970, she was named the outstanding graduate in education from the University of Idaho, and in 1972, she was named the outstanding young educator in the Moscow School District.

Edwards holds a certificate from the national Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf and has served as a talent-bank member for the Idaho Department of Education.

Some of her other activities include serving as CSI Faculty Senate president, member of the Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission, treasurer of the Gem State Toastmasters Club and the citizens search committee for a new CSI president.

JOAN EDWARDS

Woman relies on faith

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (UPI)—A 107-year-old woman credits her religious faith with giving her the strength to live so many years and forgive a niece who forced her from her home and later burned it to the ground.

"I give thanks to God every day for each day he has loaned me," said Evaresta Serrata. "Without faith, there's nothing."

Only a few of the memories she recalled at her weekend birthday party were bad.

She married at 15 and her husband died in 1939. The couple never had children but Mrs. Serrata has since reared four generations of children left homeless by death and divorce in the family, she said.

One of those children—a niece—returned to Mrs. Serrata's small home in 1980 and eventually forced the old woman out, she said. Mrs. Serrata had to seek legal help to have her home returned to her.

The niece had left the house in a shambles but a sympathetic community restored it when Mrs. Serrata moved back in.

When the home was burned in 1981, the niece and a companion were charged with arson. Again the community pitched in for renovation and Mrs. Serrata holds no grudges.

"God bless them," Mrs. Serrata said. "We're all children of the Lord. I'm here through the hands of God through whatever illness."

The frail little woman recovered from a stroke last year but walks carefully because her eyesight is nearly gone.

Player pianos popular

By STANLEY W. DARDEN
United Press International

In 1965 Art Guilmet bought a 45-year-old player piano that was falling apart and refurbished it as a wedding gift for his wife. They've been making beautiful music on it ever since.

Guilmet, an engineer by training, practically rebuilt his Noble piano from scratch. They keep the piano in the recreation room of their home in an Atlanta suburb where it provides accompaniment for sing-alongs at parties.

Art and Kay Guilmet and their three children are typical of families who are keeping alive a tradition of home entertainment that many observers feared had died with the advent of radio in the early 1920s.

Player pianos are staging a comeback, according to manufacturers and firms that refurbish old one or make new ones for the home.

"The majority of our sales," said Arthur Marino of Albanese Player Piano Co. in Palisades Park, N.J., "are made to two general types of customers: the older couples who remember player pianos from their youth and the younger couples who have a child studying piano and want

L.M. Boyd What's what

Am told that young unmarried farm girls of North Dakota soon will be invited to compete in still one more beauty contest for the title of "Miss Edible Bean."

The four-fingered blue character known hereabouts as a "Smurf" is called "Schtroumpf" in France, "Puffo" in Italy, "Pitufo" in Spain, "Schlumpf" in Germany and "Smolt" in Denmark.

A householder in Santa Clara, Calif., has a pet high-voltage eel known affectionately thereabouts as General Electric.

Copy Editor's Creed: "If it goes without saying, let it."

MIXED DRINK

Q. What goes into that oriental drink called a "Taiwan On?"

A. Gin and tonic, that's all. The name -- not so oriental, if you say it slowly -- was dreamed up in a Taiwan bar frequented by Americans.

Q. How much would it cost to get a surrogate mother to have a baby for us?

A. Can only tell you the average cost at the outset of 1982: $17,000.

Q. Body weight varies from season to season. That I know. During what month is a woman most likely to be her heaviest?

A. January. That month she most likely weighs her least is September.

SHOPPING MUSIC

The livelier the music that's piped 'tinto supermarkets, the less each shopper buys. Generally, generally. Still, speeding up the tempo of the selected tunes quickens the shopper, and this serves at the busiest times of the week to move the traffic more swiftly, so boosts the overall gross.

A student of the mind named Carl Whitaker confirms a sad truth you already may know: "The one you love the most is the one you can help the least."

To his reconditioned proverbs, our language man has added: "There are more things in Heaven and earth than any place else."

Latest statistics indicate Nevada has the highest crime rate, West Virginia the lowest.

John Forsythe, Joan Collins of 'Dynasty' were top TV stars cited in Golden Globe awards

'Gandhi' grabs top honors on Golden Globe listings

By VERNON SCOTT
Cliff Press International

HOLLYWOOD — "Gandhi," the epic biographical film, garnered top honors at the 40th annual Golden Globe presentations Saturday night, winning five awards including best foreign picture, director and two honors for its star.

"E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial" won the Golden Globe for best motion picture drama of the year and "Tootsie" was selected best comedy film of 1982.

The Golden Globe awards, presented in 28 categories, were voted on by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association. The results are avidly watched in the motion picture industry as a possible hint of results at the Academy Awards presentation April 11.

It was a triumphant night for the British as many of the winners hailed from England. Including Ben Kingsley, who won the award for best new motion picture star of the year and best actor in a drama for his portrayal of the title role in "Gandhi."

Sir Richard Attenborough won the award for best director for his work in the three-hour production of "Gandhi." A fifth award for the film was won by screenwriter John Briley for his script.

It was also a night of many honors for "Tootsie," with actor Dustin Hoffman winning a Golden Globe for best movie actor in a comedy or musical for his role. Hoffman played an unemployed actor who finally lands work in the role of a woman in a soap opera.

Julie Andrews won a Golden Globe for best movie actress, comedy or musical, for her performance in "Victor/Victoria" as a woman posing as a man who plays a female impersonator.

Meryl Streep won the award for best dramatic motion picture actress for her role as a Polish concentration camp survivor in "Sophie's Choice."

In the category for best supporting motion picture players, Louis Gossett won the award for his performance as a tough drill instructor in "An Officer and a Gentleman." Jessica Lange won best supporting actress for her role as the confused child of Hoffman's character in "Tootsie."

John Williams won the award for best original score in a motion picture for "E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial," while "Up Where We Belong," from "An Officer and a Gentleman," came away with a Golden Globe for best original song in a motion picture.

Voted best television drama series of the year was "Hill Street Blues."

The award for best comedy or musical series went to "Cheers."

A Golden Globe went posthumously to Ingrid Bergman in the role of Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir in "A Woman Called Golda." The best actor in a miniseries or TV movie was Anthony Andrews in the British production "Brideshead Revisited."

"Brideshead Revisited" also was voted best television miniseries or motion picture of 1982.

Alan Alda, whose "M-A-S-H" series leaves the air next month, won the award for best TV actor in a comedy or music series. Debbie Allen, the fiery dance teacher in "Fame," won for best TV actress in a comedy or musical.

John Forsythe, who plays the wealthy oil baron in "Dynasty," was voted best television actor in a drama series and one of his co-stars, Joan Collins, won the award for best actress.

Voted best supporting actor in a TV series was Lionel Stander for his crusty chauffeur's role in "Hart to Hart," and Shelley Long won the Golden Globe for best supporting part for her role as the dippy barmaid in the "Cheers" situation comedy.

Sandra Bergman was voted new female star of the year for her performance in the motion picture "Conan the Barbarian."

Gyrating traffic cop to retire

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Traffic cop Vic Cianca, whose decades of street-corner gyrations made him the city's theater of motorists and a television star of sorts, is hanging up his white gloves and whistle.

"Vic retires today because the city requires officers to retire at age 65."

"It's been part of my life for 32 years," said the stocky, dark-haired policeman, whose flashing hands and whistle-blowing antics brought him fame on such television shows as "Candid Camera" and "Real People."

"People come by to see me," he said. "It's like being your own backyard. It's like a big family."

With his hands working non-stop, he looks like he should be waving a baton — in fact, he led the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra in a special guest appearance last June.

In one of his final days on the job, Vic was busy doing what he has done since 1951, stepping into Pittsburgh's evening rush hour wearing his trademark white gloves, unangling traffic snarls and making friends.

Thirty minutes after starting his shift, Vic collected a bottle of "kosher" champagne from a local jeweler, a warm hello from a blind man, 27 handshakes and six kisses — all wishing him well on his retirement.

"If we had 50,000 policemen like him, this would be a beautiful town," said Willis Brooks, one passerby captivated by Vic's performance.

"Everybody loves him. He's a beautiful man."

That's not to say it's all been fun. Vic said his father sparked a bit of professional jealousy from fellow officers.

"When he was filmed on 'Candid Camera' in 1964, the police superintendent refused to let him appear live on the show and ordered him to tone down his traffic directions."

After he retires and his white gloves are hung at the police academy, he's thinking about parlaying his popularity into a new field — politics.

"People I pass every day in the street say, 'Vic, you ought to give City Council a shot,'" he said. "What can I lose?"

THE CHICKEN IS BACK!

So many of you called and were disappointed that we weren't featuring our PAN FRIED CHICKEN on Tuesdays that we are bringing back complete with apple fritters, mashed potatoes, corn on the cob and biscuits with honey butter. The price is still the same ($2.85), and if you want more chicken, just ask for it; no extra charge. Starting Tuesday, February 1, we will feature our Pan Fried Chicken every week, rain or shine.

Won't you join us again for chicken as it should be served — Pan Fried And Juicy.

Bank to call more witnesses

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Bank of America plans to call more witnesses today to testify that Erin Fleming, Groucho Marx's companion during the last six years of his life, abused him and made off with $400,000 from his estate.

The bank, the executor of the estate, is suing Miss Fleming, 42, for $1.4 million. In turn, she filed a $100-million suit Jan. 19 against the bank.

Miss Fleming was Marx's companion during the six years before his death in 1977 at the age of 86, and the comedian's daughter has testified Miss Fleming terrorized him.

Melinda Marx Miller, 36, Marx's youngest daughter, was a surprise witness last Friday, the sixth day of the trial. She broke down in tears describing how her father changed from a bright, witty conversationalist, to a frightened, senile old man under Miss Fleming's care.

"The main difference is when I would come over he would always be drugged," she said. "Before, he had been old, but he was still sharp. But then, he began to always nod and he lost his ability to be coherent."

Miss Miller was one of a string of witnesses called by the bank's attorneys in an effort to prove Miss Fleming, a former showgirl, took $400,000 from the estate by deceit.

Lone Ranger began gallop across West 50 years ago

DETROIT (UPI) — Fifty years ago Sunday the Lone Ranger donned a black mask cut from his dead brother's vest, mounted his stallion Silver and began a gallop across the airwaves that carried him into entertainment history.

"A fiery horse with the speed of light, a cloud of dust and a hearty 'Hi-yo Silver, away!' and the Lone Ranger rode into American living rooms to the strains of the William Tell Overture."

He started his career as a champion of justice on Detroit radio station WXYZ, Jan. 30, 1933. Before the decade was out, more than 400 stations carried the Lone Ranger.

The fictional Lone Ranger, born in 1850, began his career as the only Texas Ranger to survive a bushwhacking by outlaws that killed five others, including his older brother, Daniel Reid.

The Indian Tonto found the younger

Reid riddled with bullets, nursed him to health, and roamed seven states with him to fight the forces of evil.

When the masked man, who was portrayed by 18 different actors, first rode the airwaves he didn't even have a name. Writer Fran Striker created him for use on the Manjungle series, a half-hour drama show that was run nightly except Sundays.

"In the beginning it was something like 'Zorro,'" said contributing writer and actor Tom Dugan in an interview with UPI. "He would shoot up three or four bad guys at the end of the show and ride away laughing."

"We simmered him down and made him the greatest hero that ever was," Dugan said. "Nowhere in the pages of history can anyone find a greater champion of justice."

Soon the Lone Ranger, with thundering hoof beats (actually coconut shells beaten against the chest of soundmen) expanded his audio trails.

He was heard in Chicago and New York, and was instrumental in the establishment of the Mutual Network.

The show's popularity brought demands for personal appearances so announcer Brace Beemer was fitted with a cowboy outfit and a white horse was rented from a circus playing in Detroit. On July 30, 1933, the Lone Ranger made his first public appearance to rave reviews, according to Dick Osgood, a writer who worked at WXYZ for 37 years and wrote a book on the station.

The Lone Ranger's first movie serial was in 1938. It won an award as the best serial of the year.

The masked man entertained U.S. troops in World War II via the Armed Forces Radio Network and gained an audience world wide.

In September, 1949, the Lone Ranger galloped into television.

Osgood said they chose a man who had been a trapeze artist in movie serials to play the TV role of the acrobatic horse riding Lone Ranger.

Clark remains stable

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Dr. Barney Clark spent his 60th day on an artificial heart at the University of Utah Medical Center Sunday in "serious but stable" condition, a center spokesman said.

Helen Kee, nursing supervisor at the medical center, said Clark's condition was "still the same."

The 62-year-old patient, a retired dentist from Des Moines, Wash., received the artificial heart Dec. 2 during an operation performed by Dr. William C. DeVries.

Kee said Clark had not experienced any bleeding during the day. Clark recently underwent an operation, his fourth, to prevent strength-draining nosebleeds.

Clark is fed intravenously through a nasal-gastric tube in his neck, the nursing supervisor said. A tube in his nose was removed during the nosebleed operation.

The now-famous patient has been resting, Kee said, but has been able to get out of bed and sit in a chair daily.

In recent days, Clark has been wheeled to other areas in the hospital for tests and to a sun room with a view of the Salt Lake City skyline. Doctors are hopeful his strength can be rebuilt so he can eventually leave the hospital and live in his own apartment.

ADOLF HITLER
To power 50 years ago

Holocaust memorial in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — A hand grenade exploded Sunday in the courtyard of the West German Embassy on the 50th anniversary of Adolf Hitler's rise to power, the city's police chief said.

No one was injured. The blast occurred despite beefed-up security around the three-story embassy in the quiet residential neighborhood in an exclusive area of Tel Aviv, police chief Avraham Turgeman said.

"After 50 years, someone has given them a reminder," said a middle-aged Romanian-born Israeli standing outside the embassy. "It was a fragmentation grenade that exploded at 9 p.m. (noon MST) and it caused only light damage to a Mercedes belonging to the embassy," Turgeman said.

Israeli anti-terrorist border guards carrying submachine guns and powerful searchlights scoured the courtyard of the embassy after the blast. Embassy officials would not comment on the incident, other than to confirm it had taken place.

The incident took place as Israel Television screened a report from West Germany on ceremonies at the Reichstag in West Berlin on the occasion of the Hitler anniversary.

In Jerusalem, Israelis commemorated the day with a simple memorial service commemorating the death of 6 million Jews in the Nazi Holocaust.

President Yitzhak Navon, addressing the assembly, said memories of the Holocaust should serve to eliminate racial tensions in Israel. He also called for Nazi war criminals to be brought to justice.

The 20-minute ceremony was held in the Hall of Remembrance, a large tomb-like chamber that is part of the Yad Vashem Holocaust Museum.

The names of about 20 Nazi concentration camps are engraved on the black tile floor. An eternal flame burns in one corner.

Several prayers were recited as a small choir sang. Navon spoke and flowers were laid across the memorial's symbolic grave, a large slab of grey metal.

"How was it possible that the German people who produced so many writers, poets, musicians, intellectuals, could have produced that — I won't call it beast because it would be an insult to beasts," Navon told reporters after the service.

'Zero option' receives nod by Thatcher

LONDON (UPI) — With Vice President George Bush on a seven-nation swing through Western Europe to sell President Reagan's "zero option" disarmament plan, Britain signalled Sunday it was ready to support the propaganda campaign against the peace movement.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's government is conferring with a leading advertising agency about a sophisticated campaign to counter the unilateral disarmament movement and back "zero option," the defense ministry said.

"We have a major task of public education to undertake," said Foreign Secretary Francis Pym in a defense policy speech.

"It is the responsibility of every politician to get over to all the people of this country a message about our policy for disarmament," he told Conservative Party supporters at Cambridge University.

Soviet Communist Party leader Yuri Andropov declared Russian policy last November saying, "Let no one expect unilateral disarmament from us. We are not naive people," Pym said.

"We are not either," Pym said. NATO favored the "even-handed approach" of zero option — scrapping plans to deploy medium-range cruise and Pershing II missiles in Europe if the Russians dismantle the medium-range SS-20s they already have deployed in eastern Europe, Pym said.

"Zero level on both sides is what we are aiming for," Pym said. "It is the one which we most to reduce the number of nuclear weapons."

Recall past, Germans told

BERLIN (UPI) — On the 50th anniversary of Adolf Hitler's rise to power Sunday, Germans were urged never to forget the horrors of the Nazi past in order to secure the future.

"I say to all young people: Distrust all those who invite us to forget our history or flatter us. The danger lies in silence, which would provide a hiding for the guilty and rob us of the weapons we need to make a future," said Social Democratic Party leader and former chancellor Willy Brandt.

In a ceremony at the Reichstag building in West Berlin marking Hitler's accession to power on Jan. 30, 1933, Brandt said Germany would be lost if it attempted to run away from its Nazi past.

"To forget would be to fundamentally damage our future," Brandt said. Germany could not simply wipe away 12 years of its history under Nazi rule and pretend it did not happen.

"We are moved with grief for the victims, the cities and the countries laid waste, the murdered, the martyred, the fallen grief over the damage to European peace, grief about the divided German nation," current Chancellor Helmut Kohl said at the same ceremony.

In East Berlin, thousands of East Germans led by Communist Party chief Erich Honecker remembered the anniversary by laying wreaths in memory of the victims of fascism and the 50 million dead of World War II on the memorial on the main street. Under East Linden, the official press agency ADN said.

In a long speech which sketched the events leading up to the accession of Hitler, the beginning of dictatorship and the inevitable world war, Kohl laid heavy stress on the grief Germans felt about the Nazi period.

Kohl said that military victory was followed during the war by the mass murder of millions of European Jews.

"How many tears, how much sorrow was caused? How many prayers and dearest wishes rose to heaven as inhumanity triumphed... The name of Germany was disgraced before the eyes of humanity," Kohl said.

Papal visit in June

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Pope John Paul II, considering it his "right and duty," will make his second visit as pontiff to his homeland June 18. Polish bishops confirmed Sunday in a letter read in churches throughout Poland.

The letter, which was also released in Rome, did not say how long the pope's visit would last or to what cities he would travel. It did end speculation the trip might not take place.

"With great joy we are beginning the period of preparation for the second pilgrimage of the Holy Father, who will reach his homeland June 18 of this year," the letter said. John Paul visited Poland for eight days in June 1979.

"We are happy because this corresponds with the wishes of the Holy Father, who considered it his right and duty to pay homage to the mother of God who for 600 years has ruled our nation," the letter said.

The pastoral letter also called for restoration of "full social justice" and amnesty for some 1,500 Solidarity union activists serving up to 10-year prison sentences for violating martial law regulations.

Redskins Riginize Dolphins

'Skins claim title behind Riggins' record-setting day

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI executive sports editor

PASADENA, Calif. — It was only fitting that John Riggins' storybook performance should come in the shadow of Hollywood.

Riggins turned in a record-shattering effort Sunday to lead the Washington Redskins to their first Super Bowl title, a 27-17 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

And it came in a storyline a Hollywood scriptwriter would appreciate.

With the Redskins trailing 17-13 early in the fourth quarter and faced with a 4th-and-1, Riggins burst to his left, roared through a tackler and dashed 43 yards to the end zone for the go-ahead score.

Riggins' run capped a spectacular day unrivaled in Super Bowl history. His run was the longest scoring run in Super Bowl history and helped him amass a Super Bowl record 166 yards. Riggins' 38 carries set a Super Bowl record and tied an NFL playoff record. His TD run broke the mark of 22 yards set by Franco Harris of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

It was a fitting climax for Riggins, who retired two years ago, came back, and thought of quitting again during the players' strike this season.

He became the first player in NFL history to record four consecutive 100-yard games in postseason.

The 6-foot-2, 235-pounder, an 11-year veteran, gained 119 yards against Detroit, 185 against Minnesota and 140 against Dallas.

"It really hasn't set in on me yet," said Riggins, who up to this week had refused to speak to the media. "I think maybe tomorrow all of this will dawn on me and I'll realize what happened. Right now I'm still in a state of shock."

"It was a long, hard day. I was concerned playing the Dolphins — I've never really had a good game against them — but our line played an outstanding game. They really did the job. They got in their faces and pushed them back and opened the holes for me. I can't say enough about them."

Riggins unanimously named the game's Most Valuable Player, said he felt Miami cornerback Don McNeal, who attempted to stop him on his touchdown run, was off balance.

"We had run that play before and it was successful," said Riggins. "The guy (McNeal) couldn't quite get a hold of me and that was it. People said he fell down before he got to me but I never saw it. I just tried to keep him off me with my right arm and once I broke through, there was no one behind him. One of the Blackwood boys had a shot but he didn't have enough ground."

Washington Coach Joe Gibbs said he felt confident even though the Redskins trailed at halftime.

"I told our team at the half that we've been in tough times before and pulled it out and that we could do it again," said Gibbs. "We trailed Philadelphia 14-3 and came back to win. These guys are really tough and I had a good feeling at the half and so did they."

'Complete' Redskins may get some respect

PASADENA, Calif. — In an appropriate tribute to a city known for the filibuster, the Washington Redskins became the talk of pro football Sunday.

Behind record-setting fullback John Riggins and a defense that limited Miami to two first downs and zero yards passing in the second half, the Redskins rallied past the Dolphins 27-17 in Super Bowl XVII to win their eighth straight game ... and some long-deserved respect.

"Some people underestimate us because we're a total team, tough and physical," said Coach Joe Gibbs after guiding the Redskins to their 12th victory in 13 games during this strike-shortened season.

"I want to thank God, (club owner) Mr. Jack Kent Cooke, (general manager) Mr. Bobby Beathard, my players and then our fans. In that order."

Cooke, beaming broadly in a hounds-tooth hat, accepted the Vince Lombardi Trophy from NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle in a raucous dressing room and had the composure to joke Rozelle.

"This magnificent team has the privilege of playing in front of the most fabulous fans on the face of the earth," Cooke said. "As for you, my dear Pete, you said we had the best record in the NFC. As a matter of fact, we had the best record in the NFL."

Riggins capped the greatest post-season performance in league history, breaking Franco Harris' single-game, Super Bowl record with 166 yards and one touchdown in 28 carries as the Redskins blasted through Miami's league-best defense for an astounding 276 yards on the ground.

The 235-pound fullback provided the game's key play five minutes into the fourth period when he broke through an arm tackle by 192-pound cornerback Don McNeal on 4th-and-1 and rumbled 43 yards for a score to put Washington ahead 20-17.

The Washington defense, lost in the shadow of the pre-game hype surrounding its Miami counterpart, didn't allow a single completion in the second half and forced Dolphins Coach Don Shula to substitute backup Don Strock for a very ineffective David Woodley in the final minutes.

"When they got that halftime lead (17-10), I think they got a little conservative," said Redskins free safety and player representative Mark Murphy. "Actually, we shut them down all day except for some big plays. The key, we felt, was to get them in long-yardage situations and we blitzed a lot on first down in an attempt to stop the run as much as apply pressure to Woodley."

"We felt we've had a great defense all year and, of course, it makes you play harder when the other team is getting all the publicity. This has been a roller-coaster year, considering the strike, and I'm still in a state of shock."

President Reagan quickly jumped on the Washington bandwagon with a post-game phone call to Gibbs.

"I just want to say congratulations to that team of yours," he said. "I'd like to know if your team would now like to help me on Capitol Hill. Also, do you think Riggins would mind me changing the spelling of my name to add an 'I' and a couple of 'G's. You really earned it out there."

Gibbs had been praising his team all week for its versatility. And the self-named "Hogs" of the offensive line certainly did their part in controlling the line of scrimmage -- and the outcome.

"We've run the ball on everybody we've faced in the playoffs and I think we were very sharp offensively today," said center Jeff Bostic. "We played Redskins football today. That fourth-down call is our bread-and-butter and obviously we went with what got us here."

"We call that play '70-chip.' John bounced off left tackle and when I saw him go down the sidelines alone, I had only one thought -- Super Bowl ring."

double what he was making last week.

The three Idaho schools all have fewer assistant coaches than the remaining Big Sky schools. It's perhaps a way of keeping the sport from getting out of hand and to keep the expenses within reason. Whatever the reason, a coaching staff of five has a much bigger workload than a staff of eight or nine if they want to be successful. It's a matter of simple mathematics. The staffs at the three Idaho schools have put the work in. They've taken turns winning the Big Sky title over the past three seasons (Idaho technically was second this past season).

Criner's put in his dues. He's the winningest coach in Big Sky history and it was time to cash in on his seven successful seasons at BSU instead of beating his head against uncertain funding and a larger Division I-AA field than won't allow the Big Sky to claim national titles at its whim.

BSU has given the job to Lyle Setenich, but he's got a tremendous task on his shoulders. Setenich is just three years removed from the high school coaching ranks, so lacks much of the experience of several Big Sky head coaches. In addition, he's going to have to rebuild a coaching staff. Criner said in Saturday's press conference at Ames, Iowa, that he plans to talk to his offensive coordinator Gene Dahlquist about a position at Iowa State. If he leaves, Setenich and secondary Coach Phil Snow are all that remain on full-time status. Bill Dutton, the defensive line coach, left last week for the USFL.

Criner's departure leaves the BSU athletic program in precarious shape. Dave Leach's basketball program has been the target of recent attacks and there are many more empty seats than occupied ones in the new Pavilion.

If the football program is slapped with probation and runs into hard times, BSU's two money-making sports -- and thusly the entire program -- will be in jeopardy.

Here's hoping that Leach and Setenich find success. The Broncos have plenty of work ahead of them -- perhaps as much as Criner faces when the Cornhuskers and Sooners come calling the first time. The step from the Big Sky to one of the best football conferences in the country is a tall one.

Several factors cause Criner's sudden departure

Was it a potential probation, the possibility of uncertain funding, the lure of big money or just the idea of coaching against such teams as Nebraska and Oklahoma?

Whatever his reasons for leaving, Boise State University has lost a good football coach in Jim Criner.

Criner signed a 5-year contract with Iowa State University Saturday, replacing Donnie Duncan who stepped down a few weeks ago after giving the Cyclones four respectable seasons.

Just a few weeks ago Criner was talking as if he would die in Boise after a two or three-decade career at BSU. Now, in a whirlwind week, he's gone.

Why?

You can bet that the recent events were the deciding factors in Criner's decision to leave behind BSU, the state of Idaho and the Big Sky Conference.

Last weekend a potential BSU player was killed in a car accident near Horseshoe Bend at a snowmobile outing to Cougar Mountain near Cascade. Several potential recruits were being entertained by BSU and the trip ended in tragedy, a 17-year-old defense back suffering massive and fatal head injuries.

It's our guess that Boise State will receive some sort of sanction from the NCAA -- possibly a year's probation -- for violating the entertainment rule. It's not illegal for a school to entertain recruits on their visit to the school, but it must be done within the contiguous area where the school is located. Cascade is 55 miles from Boise, not exactly next door. If snow fun was the desired activity, Bogus Basin is less than 20 miles from Boise.

Criner said last week that he didn't think the NCAA would see anything wrong with the practice.

"I can't believe the NCAA would call it a violation. Everybody I know in the inter-mountain area does the same thing. We all know each other does it!" Criner told The Idaho Statesman last week. "If any of us thought what we were doing was a violation, obviously we wouldn't be telling about it. Obviously we wouldn't be doing it."

Boise State has filed a report with the NCAA and it will probably be several months before the organization makes a ruling.

Maybe the NCAA will say nothing, thereby saying its OK for schools in the West to entertain athletes in the "nearby" mountains.

Whatever the decision, the time was right for Criner to move along for other reasons:

• Criner's team was on probation back in 1979 for an illegal scouting attempt in 1978. The team paid the price by going 7-0 but being ineligible for the Big Sky crown. Criner couldn't risk another probation. Criner may have left in a cloud of uncertainty, but that might've been preferable to hanging around until the cloud became an unescapable blanket of fog.

• The state financial climate is poor as we're all painfully aware. Criner's salary was frozen at $43,785 and even though he was offered a 4-year part last week, that's little incentive to keep him at BSU. Other Division I schools had been talking to Criner, if not actively seeking his skills. His pact with Iowa State is for $50,000 a year plus more for a radio and TV contract. It's our guess he'll be making between $70,000 and $90,000 a year, the going figure for a Big Eight head coach. That's

John Riggins eludes Miami's Don McNeal to score win-clinching 43-yard TD in Super Bowl

Washington's star never dreamed he'd be the MVP

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — John Riggins expresses himself like he runs -- with little wasted motion.

At the outset of the playoffs, the veteran Washington Redskins fullback approached Coach Joe Gibbs and told him: "I don't have much time left, so why don't you give me the football?"

On Sunday, Riggins carried the ball 38 times for a Super Bowl-record 166 yards to lead Washington to a 27-17 victory over the Miami Dolphins in Super Bowl XVII.

"I told Joe I wanted the ball for the Detroit game," he joked. "But he kind of got carried away."

Riggins, who entered the game as the NFL's seventh all-time leading rusher, has always been the freest of spirits.

He's crazy," said NBC broadcaster Mike Adamle, a teammate of Riggins' on the New York Jets.

"No he's not," said Gibbs, correcting Adamle, in the jubilant Redskins dressing room. "He's a very intelligent person you get to know him."

Two years ago, Riggins quit the game to return to his farm in Kansas.

"I spent the time listening to my cows, but after a while I got itchy," he said.

Not in his wildest dreams, Riggins admitted, did he expect then to be named the Super Bowl's Most Valuable Player. The Redskins fullback clinched the honor -- and the victory -- when he romped for a 43-yard touchdown with 10 minutes left to give Washington a 20-17 lead.

The touchdown was the longest run in Super Bowl history. He also became the first player to rush for more than 100 yards in four consecutive playoff games, breaking the record of three set by Larry Csonka and Franco Harris.

It wasn't the kind of run that made Gale Sayers famous, but rather a simple off-tackle play in which Riggins ran through Don McNeal's attempted tackle at the line of scrimmage into a vacant secondary.

"A lot of the credit has to go to our line," he said, alluding to the now-famous Hogs. "They did the job all year, and they certainly did the job today."

"You know me," Riggins said. "I like to win. I change directions every five minutes. It's the same thing I've been doing for 11 years."

"Are you doing it better now?" someone asked.

"You'll have to ask my wife," Riggins said.

McNeal, Miami offer no excuses

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — As John Riggins slipped from his grasp, Miami cornerback Don McNeal knew the Super Bowl had also slipped away.

Riggins crashed over McNeal and rambled 43 yards for a touchdown Sunday to lift the Washington Redskins to a 27-17 victory over the Dolphins. Miami led 17-13 in the final period but on 4th-and-1, Riggins took the handoff, slammed into McNeal and raced untouched for the longest touchdown run in Super Bowl history to start the Redskins on their winning surge.

A despondent McNeal made no excuses for missing the tackle.

"I was there, I had the position, but he's very physical, a very tough guy to bring down," McNeal said. "I hit him high and I should have hit him low. All your life they teach you to hit low, to stop the legs. The time came to do it, and I forgot what I had learned."

"I grabbed him and held on as long as I could but I could feel him slipping away. Finally, I just couldn't hold on any longer. Once I let go, I knew he was gone. I didn't want to get up. I let it slip away."

Washington's rally came as the Dolphins' offense sputtered to a halt. Quarterback David Woodley produced only 39 yards in the second half and failed to complete a single pass in a dismal offensive show.

"The second half was so frustrating," said Woodley. "The running game didn't get going and my passing was off. There was nothing to turn to. That's about as frustrated as I've ever been on a football field."

"The Redskins took it away from us in the second half. They didn't do anything we didn't plan on, but they played a great man-to-man coverage and we couldn't do anything against it. It's so frustrating not to be able to get anything done -- to work so hard, to prepare so well, and then just fail to execute. It's really depressing."

Even a telephone call from President Reagan could not cheer up Miami Coach Don Shula.

'Hogs' get credit for victory

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Washington's "Hogs" made the Dolphins look like an endangered species Sunday.

Miami entered Super Bowl XVII with the No. 1 defense in the league and coordinator Bill Arnsparger praised as this year's genius. But the Redskins' offensive line controlled the line of scrimmage in dramatic fashion to lead them to a 27-17 upset.

"The Dolphins are a great team, but the one thing nobody could do against them all year was run the ball consistently — and we did," understated quarterback Joe Theismann after record-setting fullback John Riggins paced a 276-yard ground attack that gave the Redskins possession for 36:15 of a possible 60 minutes.

Riggins broke Franco Harris' single-game Super Bowl record with 166 yards on 38 carries and provided the game's key play five minutes into the fourth quarter on 4th-and-inches from the Miami 43.

The Dolphins appeared confused as the Redskins lined up and Miami called a timeout to regroup. A huddle with Arnsparger was of little benefit, though, as the 235-pound Riggins went off left end, broke an arm tackle by 192-pound cornerback Don McNeal and rumbled down the left sideline for a touchdown to give Washington a 20-17 advantage.

"We call that play, 70-chip," said center Jeff Bostle, who consistently manhandled the middle of Miami's defensive line. "Don bounced off left tackle and when I saw him go down the sidelines alone I had only one thought — Super Bowl ring. That fourth-down call is our bread and butter and obviously we went with what got us here."

"I sealed off their right tackle and I saw John break toward their right cornerback. I knew he (McNeal) wasn't gonna get him. Those defensive backs have got to be crying when they see him coming. In the fourth quarter, we always win. I think we run so much (22) that we wore them down."

tough, physical team all year and that's what you have to be to win the Super Bowl."

McNeal refused to make any allis for missing Riggins.

"I have no excuses — I just missed the tackle," he said. "I was there — I had the position — but he's very physical, a very tough guy to bring down."

Washington put the game out of reach with 1:55 remaining after Joe Theismann sprinted to his right and fired a 6-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Brown.

Miami took a 17-10 halftime lead on David Woodley's 76-yard TD pass to Jimmy Cefalo and a Super Bowl record 99-yard kickoff return for a score by Fulton Walker.

Washington cut the lead to 17-13 midway through the third period when Alvin Garrett's 43-yard run off a double-reverse set up Mark Moseley's 20-yard field goal.

Miami was trapped deep in its territory after Lyle Blackwood intercepted Theismann's pass on the Dolphins' 1 and were forced to punt after just three plays.

Washington took over on its 40 and Riggins had runs of 7 and 1 yards and Clarence Harmon plunged for a yard to set up the 4th-and-1. Washington elected to go for the first down and went with his big gun. Riggins burst to his left, and seconds later, the Redskins were on their way to their first Super Bowl title in two attempts.

Miami was only able to gain 34 total yards in the second half and did not gain a yard passing during the final 30 minutes.

Walker's record-setting kickoff return came after Washington marched 80 yards in 11 plays to tie the game on Theismann's 4-yard flip to Garrett in the right corner of the end zone.

Walker took the kickoff on his 2, sped upfield and veered through an opening to his left. Kicker Jeff Hayes was the only man with a chance to stop him, but Walker booted past him and raced downfield for a 17-10 halftime lead.

On the second series of the game, David Woodley hit Cefalo down the right sideline and he took it in for a 76-yard touchdown play, the second longest scoring pass in Super Bowl history.

Woodley double-pumped to freeze defender Tony Peters and then lofted the ball to Cefalo, who caught it and raced to the end zone for a 7-0 lead 6:49 into the game.

Washington trimmed the lead to 7-3 21 seconds into the second period after Dexter Manley jarred the ball loose from Woodley on a pass attempt and Dave Butz recovered for Washington on Miami's 46.

Miami boogied its lead to 10-3 on its next possession after Walker's 42-yard kickoff return gave the Dolphins the ball at their 47. Woodley hit Duriel Harris for 7 yards on a 3rd-and-5 to the Redskins' 19 and Miami moved to the 3 before Uwe von Schamann kicked a 20-yard field goal.

Washington stormed right back to tie as Theismann hit Rick Walker for 27 yards to the Redskins' 27 and threw 15 yards to Riggins to Miami's 25. Theismann ran 13 yards to the 13, and three plays later he hit Garrett for the touchdown and a 10-10 tie.

The victory was worth $36,000 to each of the Redskins for a total playoff haul of $70,000. Each of the Dolphins received $18,000 for a playoff total of $32,000.

The game was played before 103,667, the second-largest crowd in Super Bowl history.

Gilder makes up for missed putts in playoff

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Bob Gilder could have been upset after missing two short birdie putts that would have given him an easy victory in the Phoenix Open.

Gilder's putt of about 4 feet on the 18th hole gave him the victory when Rex Caldwell's longer putt lipped the hole.

But he refused to get down on himself and battled Rex Caldwell through eight playoff holes before finally getting the putt that earned him the $53,000 first prize Sunday.

"I'm not the kind that shows a lot of emotion," Gilder said. "I try not to get too high over birdies or too low over bogeys. Sometimes those 'downs' are hard to get over."

Gilder acknowledged, however, that "my stomach was churning" when he finally sank the putt that ended one of the longest sudden-death playoffs in PGA history.

His short putt dropped after Caldwell's try from about 17 feet lipped the hole.

Caldwell, loser in a playoff for the second straight week, shared second place with Mark O'Meara and two-time Phoenix champion Johnny Miller. Each won $26,133.

Gilder, Caldwell, Miller and O'Meara were tied at 13-under-par 271 after 72 holes over the Phoenix Country Club course.

Starting the playoff on the 15th hole, all four shot par. Miller and O'Meara were eliminated on the second extra hole when Caldwell and Gilder both sank long putts for birdies.

The survivors parred the 17th and 18th holes, then returned to the 15th and continued at par until they returned to the 18th.

Gilder had a chance to win on both the final hole of regulation and the first playoff hole, but missed short birdie putts both times.

Miller and Caldwell moved into the playoff with birdies on the 18th. Caldwell hit his third shot out of the trees and holed a putt from about 50 feet. Miller narrowly missed an eagle and tapped in for a birdie.

Gilder said he got a break when his second shot on the winning hole hit and stopped short of the green.

"The worst thing that could have happened would have been if it had trickled onto the front of the green," he said. "I'd been having trouble all day with long putts. As it was, I got to chip up close with a six-iron."

Caldwell's putt on the final hole was about 17 feet.

Gilder said his second Phoenix victory — he also won in 1976 — was a lot tougher.

"In 1976, I stood on the last tee with a three-shot lead and it's pretty hard to blow a three-shot lead on a par five you can reach with an iron," he said.

He said his final round of 69 was a "battle with my putter. It seemed to come and go."

Gilder said he just didn't hit his putts hard enough on the final regulation hole and the first playoff hole.

PAT BRADLEY
Finishes with 66

Bradley waltzes to seven-shot LPGA victory

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Pat Bradley birdied two of the first four holes and went on to win a 6-under-par 66 Sunday to blaze unchallenged to her 10th LPGA victory at the tour's first stop of 1983.

Bradley finished the 72 holes with a 16-under-par 272 and a whopping seven-shot margin over runnerup Beth Daniel in the $150,000 tournament.

The tournament is known as the Mazda Classic of Deer Creek.

The 31-year-old Bradley, who likes to think of herself as an underdog, now has collected $988,643 as she begins her 10th year on the tour. That's just $31,357 short of becoming the youngest and quickest millionaire in LPGA history.

Her 272 total smashed the old tournament record of 222 held by JoAnne Carner and Hollis Stacy. Bradley was one shot off the all-time

LPGA record, also held by Stacy.

Daniel struggled to a 1-under-par 71 over the 6,097-yard Deer Creek Country Club course Sunday for a 279. At 280 was Vicki Pergen with a closing 70.

Bradley said she was pulling for the Washington Redskins in Sunday's Super Bowl XVII because "they're an underdog and I'm an underdog."

"I've never had the billing other players get. I keep to myself and slowly move up to the leaders. That I believe is an underdog," said Bradley, who could join Carner, Kathy Whitworth and Donna Caponi as the LPGA's only million-dollar winners.

She said to get more recognition, she has to "win a few more than one or two tournaments a year like I have been. I've got to win four or five and that hasn't happened yet."

Bradley started off by narrowly missing an eagle on the par 5 second hole, settling for a birdie by two-putting from 12 feet.

She collected another birdie on No. 4 by placing her tee shot two feet from the hole and dropping the putt for a 2. After paring the next six holes, she pulled into a four-shot lead with another birdie on the 11th.

While Daniel was missing the green and two-putting for a bogey 4, Bradley's iron off the tee came to rest three feet from the pin and her putt went in.

Daniel rallied to pull within three shots with a birdie 3 on the 12th, but then Bradley was the beneficiary of another two-shot swing on the next hole. She birdied the par 5, 451-yard 13th hole while Daniel, who set the tournament record with a 64, was guilty of her third bogey.

Bradley kept on blistering the course as she charged down the stretch. She collected a birdie 4 on the 15th hole and then finished the day by rolling in a 15-foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 18th.

It was the first tour victory for Bradley since the 1981 U.S. Open. Although she went without a win in 1982, she finished 11th on the money list with $113,063.

Finishing at 4-under-par 284 were first-round leader JoAnne Washam, Amy Alcott, Dianne Dalley and Whitworth. Washam had a 74 Sunday. Alcott a 69, Dalley a 71 and Whitworth a 70.

Carner finished the day at 68-286 and Caponi missed the cut. Defending champion Hollis Stacy wound up at 69-286.

Moore paces bowlers

TWIN FALLS — Deolne Moore took the all-events and singles scratch lead Sunday after the first weekend of action in the Twin Falls Women's Bowling Association City Tournament.

Moore recorded 1,636 pins for all events and recorded a series high of 581. Her high game was 246.

Kay Larson and Julie Brady hold the doubles scratch lead at 1,088 pins.

Leading in the handicap events are Joan Alvey at 668 for singles, Charm Peterson and Johanna Brown at 1,250 for doubles and Judy Holbrook at 1,677 pins for all events.

The Minit Lube team leads both the team handicap (3,065) and team scratch (2,483).

The weekend action saw 102 five-women teams participate. There were 219 sets of doubles and 438 single games rolled. Both Bowladrome Ltd., and Magic Bowl were used for tourney games.

Duran TKOs Cuevas

Third world title may be attainable

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After nearly a year of struggling, Roberto Duran, the former lightweight and welterweight champion, could be close to his dream of a third world title.

Duran put himself into position for another title shot Saturday night with a devastating fourth-round technical knockout of Phipps Cuevas in a scheduled 12-round elimination fight between former world champions.

Duran had looked overweight and sloppy in losing two of his last three fights. Even in the lone victory, a 10-round decision over Jimmy Batten last November, Duran looked woefully out of shape.

But Saturday night he looked trim and fit and fought with the same savage determination that made him one of the world's great boxers through the past decade. Fighting before a near-hysterical overflow crowd of almost 17,000 fans at the Sports Arena, Duran was in control all the way as he kept Cuevas off balance with slinging left jabs in the first two rounds and then began landing combinations and right hands to Cuevas' head.

Duran hurt Cuevas with a hard right hand in the second round and then dropped him twice in the fourth. Cuevas sagged into a neutral corner on the first knockdown and took a mandatory eight-count.

Duran attacked immediately, connecting with lefts and rights to the head. A right-left-right combination sent Cuevas sinking to the canvas near his own corner and he struggled to his feet glassy-eyed before his corner stepped in to stop the fight.

The victory raised Duran's record to 75-4 and was his 56th knockout. He now is in line to face WBA junior middleweight champion Davey Moore, who successfully defended his title Saturday with a fourth-round TKO of Gary Gulden.

Cuevas, who had not fought in over a year since losing a 10-round decision to Roger Stafford, looked sluggish and rusty in falling to 29-8. Duran weighed 132 pounds and Cuevas 149.

"It was not easy because I was in with a strong fighter like Phipps," Duran said. "I'm happy I won because I can continue fighting now. I'm back on top and I want to fight Davey Moore. I was never hurt, but Phipps was hitting me with rabbit punches and low blows."

Cuevas, a 36-year veteran at only 25 years of age, said his boxing future is uncertain.

"I don't really know for sure what I'm going to do," he said. "I need some time to recuperate."

"I felt I was ahead but the first right hand stunned me in the fourth round. I wanted to continue but Lupo (trainer Lupo Sanchez) thought it was enough. The layoff had nothing to do with it. It is the toughest fighter I ever faced."

Promoter Bob Arum is looking to match Duran against Moore in May but that may depend on what happens in a court case involving No. 1 ranked Tony Ayala. Moore signed to fight Ayala in May but Ayala was arrested on New Year's Day and will go on trial in late March on charges of assault, burglary and aggravated sexual assault.

UCLA rebounds from loss to keep hex on Notre Dame

By United Press International

UCLA might not be the dominant team in college basketball anymore, but the Bruins' mastery over Notre Dame still exists.

UCLA, whose No. 1 ranking was jeopardized by a loss to Alabama Friday night, rebounded Sunday with a 59-53 victory over the Irish at Los Angeles.

Forward Darren Daye scored 46 points and guard Rod Foster added 12 to lead the Bruins, who fell 70-67 to Alabama Friday. UCLA guard Ralph Jackson added 10 points — including four free throws in the final 12 seconds — Sunday, while John Paxton led Notre Dame with 18 points, and freshman forward Tim Kempton added 15.

For UCLA, which raised its record to 14-2 for the season, it was the sixth straight victory over Notre Dame and the 20th in the schools' 31 meetings. Notre Dame, which had lost to the Bruins by a point last Dec. 4 in South Bend, Ind., fell to 10-7.

No. 2 Indiana, looking to capitalize on UCLA's upset loss to Alabama, suffered an embarrassing 63-48 loss to Big Ten rival No. 16 Iowa Saturday.

The Hawkeyes had lost two straight, but impressed Indiana Coach Bobby Knight with Greg Stokes scoring 23 points and Andre Banks adding 11 off the bench. "I like Iowa's team because they've got offensive balance and the strength and quickness to play defense,"

How UPI's top 20 fared

- NEW YORK (UPI) — How the UPI Top 20 college basketball teams fared through games of Sunday, Jan. 30:
1. UCLA (14-2) lost to Alabama 70-67; defeated Notre Dame 59-53.
  2. Indiana (13-2) defeated Northwestern 79-71; lost to Iowa 63-48.
  3. North Carolina (17-3) defeated Georgia St. 95-55; defeated Wake Forest 80-78; defeated Georgia Tech 72-65.
  4. Virginia (17-3) defeated George Washington 59-44; defeated Louisville 96-81.
  5. Memphis State (16-1) defeated Iowa 84-88; defeated Eastern Kentucky 80-63.
  6. St. John's (18-1) defeated Villanova 80-71; defeated Manhattan 65-54.
  7. Louisville (16-3) defeated Rutgers 54-49; lost to Virginia 96-81.
  8. Nevada-Las Vegas (13-6) defeated Cal-Santa Barbara 77-73; defeated Long Beach St. 78-74.
  9. Houston (15-2) defeated Rice 79-60.
  10. Kentucky (13-4) lost to Georgia 79-63.
  11. Arkansas (17-1) defeated Texas 83-64; defeated Texas Tech 62-59; defeated Wake Forest 68-65.
  12. Villanova (13-3) lost to St. John's 80-71; defeated Syracuse 83-75.
  13. Missouri (16-3) defeated Kansas 76-62; defeated Nebraska 79-56.
  14. Illinois St. (15-1) defeated Tulsa 61-55; defeated Southern Illinois 60-52.
  15. Georgetown (15-4) defeated Seton Hall 71-48; defeated Boston College 69-67.
  16. Iowa (13-4) lost to Ohio State 69-63 (OT); defeated Indiana 63-48.
  17. Minnesota (13-2) defeated Wisconsin 62-54.
  18. (tie) Syracuse (12-4) lost to Villanova 83-75.
  19. (tie) Washington State (15-2) defeated California 75-54; defeated Stanford 67-61.
  20. Wake Forest (13-4) lost to North Carolina 80-78; lost to Arkansas 80-65.

Knight said. "They're a very good basketball team. They're going to be in the thick of everything right down to the end."

Stokes and Banks sparked a second-half surge by Iowa, which trailed 27-25 at halftime.

The pair scored 14 points — 7 each — of Iowa's first 18 points to start the second half as Iowa grabbed a 43-35 lead. The 6-10 Stokes then began to dominate the play inside and pushed Iowa's lead to 51-38 on a followup shot with 6:08 to play. Iowa Coach Lute Olson called the Hawkeyes' second-half surge "our smartest and probably best half of basketball this season."

"The team we had in there worked so well with Banks in there. He let the game come to him and didn't try to force it. His defense was excellent," Olson said.

Ted Kitchel led the Hoosiers with 13 before fouling out with 2:19 to go. Indiana shot only 37.5 percent from the field and committed 15 turnovers in dropping to 15-2 overall and 5-2 in the Big Ten. Iowa, 13-4 overall, is 4-3 in league play.

Atlantic Coast Conference rivals No. 3 North Carolina and No. 4 Virginia were winners Saturday. Michael Jordan's 39 points led North Carolina to a tough 72-65 victory over Georgia Tech in ACC play and Ralph Sampson scored 35 points to lift Virginia to a 98-81 blowout over No. 8 Louisville in a non-conference showdown.

At Greensboro, N.C., the Tar Heels went to their four corners delay game with a 65-61 lead in the final 3:30. North Carolina hit 7-of-8 free throws in the final 1:35 for its seventh straight victory to improve to 16-3 overall and 5-0 in the conference.

Georgia Tech, 8-8 overall and 1-4 in the ACC, got 26 points from Mark Price. Jordan's performance was the first time a North Carolina player had scored 39 points since Al Wood accomplished the feat in the NCAA 1981 semifinals against Virginia.

At Charlottesville, Va., Virginia roared to a 54-37 halftime lead on two key spurts, then roared to a 72-42 lead in the opening four minutes of the second half and coasted. Louisville came no closer than 17 points.

Sampson scored 19 of his points in the first half as Virginia, 17-2, handed Louisville, 16-3, its first loss in its last nine games. The Cardinals were led by Billy Thompson with 16 points. Sampson said it was the Cavaliers' fast start that caused the rout.

"I think they were psyched out from the beginning when we played so well," Sampson said. "We kept driving and driving until we blew them out."

"I pick Virginia number one," Louisville Coach Denny Crum said. "I've done it all year long. I don't care how many games they've lost. I think they're the best team."

Elsewhere in the Top 10, No. 5 Memphis State clubbed Eastern Kentucky 80-65. No. 6 St. John's topped Manhattan 65-58. No. 8 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Long Beach State 78-74. No. 9 Houston, 16-2, was idle and Georgia upset No. 10 Kentucky 70-63.

In the second 10, No. 12 Villanova topped No. 18 (tie) Syracuse 83-75. No. 13 Missouri whipped Nebraska 79-56. No. 15 Georgetown edged Boston College 69-67. No. 17 Minnesota defeated Wisconsin 63-58 and No. 18 (tie) Washington State nipped Stanford 67-63.

Fourteenth-ranked Illinois State was idle.

At Memphis, Tenn., Keith Lee scored a career-high 35 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead Memphis State. Eastern Kentucky, down 40-38 at the half, stayed close until midway through the second half, but with 8:36 left in the game the Tigers began an 18-5 tear, with Lee scoring 9 points. Eastern Kentucky was led by Jimmy Stepp's 16 points. At New York, Billy Goodwin scored 18 points and St. John's, 18-1, hit 29-of-35 free throws to secure its victory. With the score tied 27-27 at the half, St. John's went to a 2-3 zone and it paid off as David Russell's basket with 16:04 to play gave the Redmen the lead for good at 37-36. Tim Cain scored 23 points for Manhattan, 11-6.

At Long Beach, Calif., center Sidney Green scored 32 points to help Nevada-Las Vegas rally to remain the only unbeaten team in Division I at 18-0.

At Athens, Ga., Vern Fleming scored 17 points to lead three other players in double figures as Georgia upset Kentucky and earned a share of the Southeastern Conference lead with the Wildcats.

Durrant bothers Lobos' skipper

By United Press International

New Mexico Coach Gary Colson has cause to worry about his team's next Western Athletic Conference meeting with Brigham Young. And the next, and even the one after that.

The object of Colson's concern is BYU star Devin Durrant, who should be on the court for the remaining game between New Mexico and BYU this season and two meetings of the teams next year, when he will be a senior.

WAC

Colson watched in dismay Saturday as Durrant turned in a game-high 19 points to help the Cougars to a 6-1 WAC record for first place in the league, and even after that showing Colson said Durrant probably is not yet "up to full form."

"I hate to think we have to look at him for three more games," Colson said.

But Colson gave most of the credit for BYU's 66-48 win to Greg Kite, who had 10 points, grabbed a game-high 13 rebounds and was credited with a career-high eight blocked shots.

"Kite was the key to the game. He was the difference," said Colson, whose Lobos slipped from third place in the WAC to fifth at 3-3 in the league and 11-7 overall. "He made several key blocks and boom, they were on the fast break. He demoralized us."

In achieving its top spot in the league standings, BYU also got some help from Utah. While BYU beat Air Force on Monday and lost to Texas El Paso on Thursday en route to a 10-10 season record, Utah capped a perfect week by downing UTEP 62-54 on Saturday.

It was the third victory of the week for Utah, following wins over Colorado State and New Mexico, and the first league loss for UTEP, which fell from first to second place with a 5-1 WAC record.

Utah coach Jerry Pimm called Saturday's victory over UTEP, led by Utah senior Pace Mannion with 21 points, the Utes' "biggest win of the season."

"I'm proud of this team," Pimm said. "The guys really were ready to go. And we had a job on (Kent) Lockhart and (Luster) Goodwin. We just didn't let Goodwin get started."

Utah held Lockhart to just six points, 10 below his average, while Goodwin got only four points, eight below his average.

Utah earned third place in the WAC standings with a 5-2 league mark and a 10-10 overall record, while UTEP fell to 13-5 overall.

Hawaii downed Wyoming 65-63 last week and went on to defeat Air Force 82-57 Saturday to move into fourth place in the WAC at 3-2 in the league and 11-6 overall.

San Diego State, 2-3 in the WAC and 11-5 overall after beating Colorado State and Wyoming last week, was sixth in the conference standings, while Air Force, Wyoming and Colorado State were tied for last place

We're changing our billing calendar.

Starting this month, Idaho Power's Twin Falls meter readers will be changing their routes. This will improve our meter-reading efficiency and help hold down costs. For us, for our customers.

It also means you'll probably be getting your February bill on a different day of the month than usual. It could be sooner, it could be later.

For example, maybe you're expecting your February bill around the 15th. Well, under the new schedule you could get it as early as the 2nd. Then again, you might have to wait until the 28th. It all depends on when the new schedule has your meter reader reading your meter. But earlier than usual or later, you can expect your Idaho Power bill to arrive around this new date every month from now on.

So be on the lookout.

If you're a Level Pay customer, this change won't affect your Level Pay amount, except that your February bill might be lower than usual. If so, your March bill will return to its normal Level Pay level.

If you have any questions on these new billing dates or route changes, or if they cause problems with your February budget, please call Idaho Power's Twin Falls office at 733-6880.

Austria's Gruber masters slick snow for slalom victory

KRANJSKA GORA, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Austrian Franz Gruber, mastering snow as slippery as an oil slick, scored his first-ever World Cup victory Sunday by winning a men's slalom event in which less than one third of the field finished both runs.

Only 22 of the 70 starters placed as the competitors topped like nine pins, but the 23-year-old Gruber managed to stay upright and complete the third Austrian success in three days. Gerhard Pfaffenbichler won Friday's downhill at Sarajevo and Hans Enn won Saturday's giant slalom.

Gruber, whose previous highest finish was a second place last year, was overjoyed.

"They said I was only good enough to come second, third or fourth, but I knew I would win one day," he said.

The Austrian returned times of 45.36 and 43.06 seconds for an aggregate of 1 minute 28.42 seconds for his two runs on the 57-gate course which was 1,013 meters long and had a vertical drop of 1,013 meters.

First-heat leader Stig Strand of Sweden, bidding for his second slalom victory of the season, had to settle for second place with 1:28.96 (44.01-44.95), while Michel Cancé became the highest-placed Frenchman in 10 years by finishing third in 1:29.43 (45.83-43.60).

Gruber, fourth after the opening heat, surged to victory with a storming second run, making up more than one and a half seconds on Strand, who seemed poised to take the winner's rostrum.

Strand's two closest first-heat rivals, Liechtenstein's Andreas Wenzel and Austria's Christian Olainsky, both skied off course on their second attempts, giving Strand a healthy cushion.

But the Swede was too negative and Gruber, next in the starting order, attacked the piste with a vengeance to snatch a dramatic victory. Strand was so disappointed that he left immediately after congratulating Gruber.

The opening heat accounted for most of the leading contenders, five of the 15 seeds and only 11 of the first 19 starters failing to finish.

Included among the "casualties" were Swedish world and Olympic champion Ingemar Stenmark and American world cup slalom champion Phil Mahre.

Stenmark, with two victories this season, fell on the lower half of the course which also claimed Phil Mahre, overall World Cup holder for the past two seasons.

"It was murder up there," said a disappointed Mahre, "your skis slide everywhere."

World giant slalom champion Steve Mahre did only a little better than his twin brother, managing to place 16th which left him outside the 15 points winners.

Franz Gruber cuts past a gate on his way to World Cup win at Kranjska Gora, Yugoslavia

Weather curtails jumping

ENGELBERG, Switzerland (UPI) — Per Bergerud of Norway won Sunday's 90-meter World Cup ski jump event, which had to be abandoned after the first round because of bad weather.

The Norwegian leapt 115 meters to pick up 130.8 points, which was good enough to beat Jeff Hastings of Norwich, Vt., who earned only 129.3 points despite clearing the same distance. East Germany's Stefan Stannarius took third place with 126.2 points from a jump of 113.5 meters.

Finland's Matti Nykanen, who did not compete Sunday, still leads the World Cup standings with 157 points, ahead of Canadian Horst Bulau, whose recent impressive run came to an end. Bulau, who has 145 points, cleared only 92 meters, for which he earned 88.6 points, and 40th place.

"What is there to say?" asked a disconsolate Bulau, who last week won the first two elements of the Swiss tournament, at St. Moritz and Gstaad. "It was a bad jump."

Bergerud, who had the satisfaction of winning the three-hill Swiss tournament, of which Sunday's was the final part, lies fifth in the World Cup with 98 points. He trails third-placed Austrian Armin Kogler, only 37th Sunday, by 13 points, and Norway's Olav Hansson, 5th Sunday, by just six points.

Italy's Quario breaks winless skid for second triumph, first since '79

LES DIABLERETS, Switzerland (UPI) — Maria-Rosa Quario finally got the second victory that eluded her for so long when she won a World Cup slalom race Sunday.

The 22-year-old Italian slalom often has finished among the best for the past four seasons but could not repeat her feat of 1979 when she won a World Cup race in Mellau, Austria. Often, she was leading after the first heat and blew it in the second.

But this time she did things differently, skiing to third spot in the first run and going all-out in the second, topping everyone else with the fastest heat time of 39.87 seconds on the course her own coach Stefano Dalmasso had staked out with 49 gates.

Her aggregate time of 1 minute, 21.72 seconds put her ahead of Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein, leader after a first run of 41.67 seconds, who finished second in 1:22.29, while Poland's Dorota Tialka took third in 1:22.50. Ironically, the competitor taking the biggest foot in World Cup points at Les Diablerets was the winner of a paper race.

Wenzel earned a total of 45 points, 20 for her runner-up spot in the slalom and 25 for a first-place finish in the combined standings computed from a racer's results in both Saturday's downhill and Sunday's slalom.

Wenzel finished only 19th in Saturday's downhill won by Switzerland's Doris de Agostini, but this was enough to give her first place in the combined standings, ahead of West Germany's Michaela Gerg and Austria's Elisabeth Kirchler, second in the downhill and 24th in the slalom.

This catapulted Wenzel to within a point of World Cup leader Tamara McKinney of the U.S., who is leading the standings with 162 points against 161 for Wenzel and 135 for Cup defender Erika Hess of Switzerland.

Erving sets vote record

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers drew a record 707,013 votes and four other players surpassed the previous record in balloting for the 1983 National Basketball Association All-Star teams, it was announced Sunday by league president Larry O'Brien.

The game will be played Feb. 13, in Inglewood, Calif. Erving's total surpassed his own previous mark of 632,330 set last year. This year a record 2,104,605 votes were cast.

Also surpassing the previous mark were centers Moses Malone of the 76ers (637,741 votes) and Kareem Abdul Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers (645,568) and guards Isaiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons (424,039) and Magic Johnson of the Lakers (578,796).

In addition to Erving, Malone and Thomas the starting East squad will be made up of guard Maurice Cheeks of the Sixers and forward Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics.

The remainder of the West starting squad will be made up of forwards Maurice Lucas of the Phoenix Suns and Alex English of the Denver Nuggets and David Thompson of the Seattle Super-Sonics.

Celtics down L.A.

BOSTON (UPI) — It was a situation where Celtics Coach Bill Fitch knew what he wanted, but wasn't sure who could give it to him.

The need was evident — stop Los Angeles' Jamaal Wilkes, who was using his speed for some easy first-half baskets. The choice for Fitch was to neutralize Wilkes — and he had to pick between M.L. Carr and Charles Bradley.

"I flipped a coin in my mind and put in M.L.," Fitch said. "All I knew was that we needed some defensive pressure."

Carr replaced Larry Bird with the score tied 46-46 and 4:40 remaining in the first half. He shut Wilkes down for the rest of the half, forced the Lakers' forward to commit two fouls, and finished a 14-4 Boston run with a steal and rousing dunk at the buzzer.

"What you try to do is put the pressure on the defensive end and that takes them away from their offensive game," Carr said. "I enjoy situations like that, where the man has to think about me and what I'm going to do."

The run gave Boston a 60-50 halftime lead and the Celtics never trailed by less than 12 the rest of the way Sunday in posting a 110-95 victory over the defending world champions. "That steal and stuff may have only given us a 10-point lead but it seemed like 20 with the enthusiasm. He gave us the lift we needed," Fitch said.

"When they put Carr in there, they became very aggressive," noted Los Angeles coach Pat Riley. "They got the run and that set the tone for the rest of the game. For all intents and purposes, that was the ball game."

Fitch wanted to reinstate Bird with two minutes to play, but Carr was doing so well Bird stayed on the bench. Bird was fresh in the third quarter and scored 15 of his 21 points to key another rally and cement Boston's 13th victory in its last 15 games.

The win also snapped Los Angeles' fourth 7-game winning streak of the season and it was just the fourth time the Lakers haven't scored 100 points. Los Angeles is still 16-3 in its last 19 games.

Bird, held to only six points in the first half, scored nine of his third quarter points during a 15-3 spurt that gave the Celtics a 91-47 lead with 1:41 remaining in the period. Los Angeles, 3-6 this year on the road against teams with winning records, never got closer than 102-90 with 4:01 to play.

Robert Parish, who had 16 rebounds, led the Celtics with 24 points and began the 15-3 spurt with a tip-in with 4:54 remaining in the third period, giving the Celtics a 78-64 lead. Bird, who had 12 rebounds and six assists, then dropped a pair of unanswered jumpers.

During the Boston surge, the Lakers managed only three foul shots and went 6:19 without a field goal.

The Celtics finished the spurt with nine straight points, the last five by Bird on a three-point play following a steal and a pair of free throws.

Jaeger whips Mandlikova

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (UPI) — Top-seed Andrea Jaeger defeated No. 3 Hana Mandlikova 6-1, 6-3, Sunday to win a $100,000 tennis tournament.

Jaeger, 17, beat Andrea Temesvari, 6-3, 6-2, to advance to the final round, while Mandlikova topped Michelle Torres, 6-4, 6-4.

Jaeger won $18,000 and Mandlikova took home $9,000 as runnerup.

"No matter what Hana did today, it wasn't the right thing," Jaeger said. "She came to the net, but then I got my passing shots down, so that didn't work for her either. She has so many shots in her bag, she sometimes doesn't know which one to pick."

Mandlikova, 20, said, "Nothing was working for me today. It was a short match. Now everyone can go home and watch the Super Bowl."

The set by holding serve in game 12. It was not until the 16th game of the match that the overpowering Lendl, who fired 29 aces in his semifinal match against Kevin Curren, unleashed his first of the day.

Vilas was best off today, however, much of Lendl's third service double faulting. Lendl's second serve "lay back" and his ground strokes of the Czech. Service breaks by Lendl in games five and seven proved decisive as Vilas found himself down two sets to none.

The serve and volley tactics of Vilas, coupled with an impressive display of shot placement, turned the third set in his favor as he broke the serve of Lendl twice, forcing a fourth set.

But Lendl recovered quickly in the final set, breaking service in game five then holding service the rest of the way.

Lendl was less than satisfied with his performance, despite the victory. "I was very disappointed because I was missing from the baseline, especially in the second set," he said. "It was very frustrating for me."

Lendl captures WCT winter crown

DETROIT (UPI) — Top-seeded Czechoslovakian Ivan Lendl overcame his own temperamental Sunday to push past Argentinean Guillermo Vilas, 7-5, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, in the final of the $250,000 World Championship Tennis winter finals.

For Lendl, the win before 4,438 fans at Cobo Arena was his ninth in 14 matches against Vilas and his 62nd match win in a row. It was also the 22-year-old's second tournament win in two weeks, having taken the Masters in New York last weekend.

The triumph netted Lendl $125,000. Runnerup Vilas took home $40,000 for his effort.

As he did in each of his previous tournament matches, Lendl questioned line calls repeatedly and, at one point in the first set when particularly perturbed over a line call, motioned in mock fashion as if he was going to hurl his racket in the direction of the umpire, bringing a chorus of jeers from the crowd.

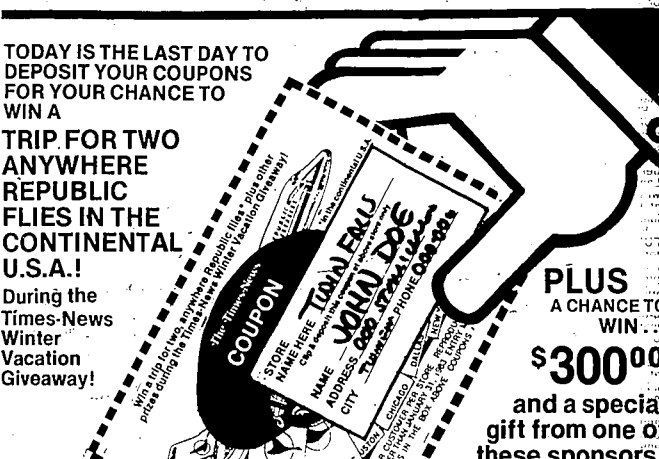

Vilas, the second seed, took the upper hand early in the first set, going up 3-0 after breaking Lendl's serve in the second game. Lendl then broke back in games five and nine, while Vilas got his second service break of the set in game eight.
